Interviews

Elite athletes will be available for interviews on Friday, October 6, following the 11 p.m. press conference. Please submit any specific interview requests to the media relations team prior to the Friday press conference to confirm time with athletes.

Interviews will not be permitted at the start or finish lines on race day with any media outlet except official event broadcast partners. The men's and women's champions, other top finishers, and Executive Race Director Carey Pinkowski will be available to the media following the race in the media center.

Race day services

- The NBC 5 broadcast will air live in the media center on race day from 7 to 11 a.m.
- Direct video feeds of the men's and women's races will accompany the live broadcast in the media center to provide complete, uninterrupted coverage of both races.
- A web link will be provided to track the leaders during the race. The tracking website will include a race leader board, as well as mile and 5K split times for the race leaders.
- Printouts of split times will be provided to working media throughout the race, and official race results will be distributed shortly after the completion of the race.
- The top three finishers and top American athletes in both the men's and women's races will address the media in the media center following the completion of the race. Additional interviews with athletes will be available upon request. Please submit those requests to the media relations team before the finish of the race.

- On race day, Executive Race Director Carey Pinkowski will offer a brief address at approximately 11:30 a.m. in the media center. At 2:30 p.m. both Pinkowski and Medical Director Dr. George Chiampas will offer a report of the day's events and be available for questions from the media.

Post-race information

Top storylines

The Bank of America Chicago Marathon Celebrates 40 years of Running and History – World Record Holders, Past Champions and Alumni Runners Return

Running legends, world record holders and past champions, Steve Jones (1984, 1985), Khalid Khan-nouchi (1997, 1999, 2000, 2002), Catherine Ndereba (2000, 2001), Paula Radcliffe (2002) and Deena Kastor (2005) will help kick off the 40th annual Bank of America Chicago Marathon race week festivities as Race Ambassadors. Jones, Khannouchi, Ndereba and Radcliffe all set world records on the iconic Chicago Marathon course. Kastor, a multi-time American record holder and an Olympic bronze medalist, is the last American woman to have captured the Chicago crown. All five champions will be available to meet with runners and the community at the Abbott Health & Fitness Expo, the Advocate Health International Chicago 5K, and at various points throughout race week.

"To have Steve, Khalid, Catherine, Paula and Deena returning to Chicago adds an extra layer of excitement and historic significance to race week as we look forward to celebrating 40 years of one of the greatest marathons in the world," said Executive Race Director Carey Pinkowski. "All of their victories shine in our record books, and on top of being great champions, they have been dedicated ambassadors to the running community. We are honored to welcome them back to Chicago."

The Bank of America Chicago Marathon is also excited to welcome back its six remaining alumni runners, Joe Antonini, Randy Burt, Henry Kozlowski, Larry Moon, George Mueller and Ron Williams. All six men ran the inaugural Chicago Marathon in 1977, and they have returned ever since to become part of the event's storied history.

Top American Marathon Runners Galen Rupp and Jordan Hasay Lead the Elite Field

Two-time Olympic medalist Galen Rupp and American marathon debut record holder Jordan Hasay make their windy city marathon debuts on October 8.

Rupp, a three-time Olympian, an eight-time USATF 10,000m champion and a member of the Nike Oregon Project, made his marathon debut in 2016 by winning the U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials. He currently owns four American records and he is the 15th fastest man in history over 10,000m; his 5000m PR, 12:58.90, puts him in an exclusive category of American runners – he is one of only six Americans to break 13:00 for the distance. At the 2012 London Olympics, Rupp became the first American since 1964 to land on the podium; he captured the silver medal after throwing down a final 400m lap in a blazing 53.8 seconds. At the 2016 Rio Olympics, Rupp earned a bronze medal in the marathon, proving that he can compete with the best on the global stage. He followed his Olympic performance with a dazzling run in Boston in April, finishing second in 2:09:58.

Hasay, also a member of the Nike Oregon Project, turned heads at the 2017 Boston Marathon with a spectacular debut performance. She finished third in 2:23:00, the fastest marathon debut ever by an American woman by almost three minutes, and the fourth fastest Boston Marathon time in history by an American woman. Before her impressive performance in Boston, she recorded the fourth fastest time ever by an American woman in the half marathon, 1:07:55, at the Prague Half Marathon (only Molly Huddle and Deena Kastor have run faster). And prior to turning her attention to the roads in 2016, Hasay focused on the track, initially making her name as a 1,500m runner (she competed in the 2008 Olympic Trials as a high school runner). She was a two-time Foot Locker Cross Country national champion in high school and a 15-time All American at the University of Oregon. The Bank of America Chicago Marathon marks her second go at the marathon distance.

Florence Kiplagat and Abel Kirui Return to Defend their Championship Titles

Florence Kiplagat (KEN) and Abel Kirui (KEN) return to Chicago to defend their 2016 titles. Kiplagat, a two-time winner of the Berlin Marathon and the former half marathon world record holder, captured back-to-back victories in 2015 and 2016. Her strongest challenge will come from 2:17:56 marathon runner (fifth fastest time in history), three-time Olympic gold medalist and 5000m world record holder Tirunesh Dibaba (ETH). In both 2015 and 2016, Kiplagat ran aggressively from the gun. Last year, she led a pack of women through the first 19 miles on sub 2:22 pace and then threw down a 5:10 mile to break away from her rivals and defend her title. She ran the fifth fastest time in the world in 2016 and the 13th fastest time in Bank of America Chicago Marathon history, 2:21:32.

Kirui, the 2012 Olympic marathon silver medalist and the 2009 and 2011 IAAF World Marathon champion, put on a show for fans last October in a tactical race that witnessed extreme pace swings from 4:33 per mile to 5:24. He held off 2015 Chicago Marathon champion Dickson Chumba (KEN) down the homestretch by three seconds to claim his first Abbott World Marathon Majors win. Kirui will face a tough field of contenders, including 2012 Olympic Marathon gold medalist, Stephen Kiprotich (UGA), current marathon world record holder Dennis Kimetto (KEN), current half marathon world record holder, Zersenay Tadese (ERI), 2016 Olympic Marathon silver medalist Feyisa Lilesa (ETH) and 2016 Olympic Marathon bronze medalist Galen Rupp (USA).

American Icon Joan Benoit Samuelson Seeks a New Record

Joan Benoit Samuelson - the first female Olympic marathon gold medalist in 1984 and former world record and American record holder - hopes to rewrite the record books by accomplishing something no woman has done before: running a sub-three marathon at age 60 (the current record is 3:01:30).

Samuelson ran into the record books in Chicago in 1985 when she beat one of the most competitive women's fields in history, defeating world record holder Ingrid Kristiansen and Olympic bronze medalist and defending Chicago Marathon champion Rosa Mota. Samuelson set an American record in 2:21:21 (a record that stood until 2003).

"Storytelling is important to me and it's how I motivate myself," Samuelson said. "My race decisions often reflect my narrative. Once I turned 60 I knew that the Oct. 8 Chicago race would represent the next chapter in my career."

Samuelson made progress in her story in 2008 when at the Olympic Trials she succeeded in securing a sub 2:50 at age 50. "I thought that was my last competitive marathon, but there were more stories for me to tell," she said. "In 2009, the 40th anniversary of the New York City Marathon was the 25th anniversary of my Olympic gold medal, and the 25th anniversary of my Chicago win fell on 10-10-10. I couldn't pass up those numbers."

The Second Annual Advocate Health Care International Chicago 5K Set for Saturday, October 7

Every October, runners from across the country and around the world gather in Chicago to participate in the Bank of America Chicago Marathon. The Advocate Health Care International Chicago 5K was established in 2016 as a way to invite runners from around the world to celebrate Chicago's global and cultural diversity, and to highlight Chicago's unique footprint as an Abbott World Marathon Major, a global gateway and an international hub for business and tourism. The Advocate Health Care International Chicago 5K offers runners the unique opportunity to start at Federal Plaza – near the original start line of the 1977 Chicago Marathon - and to take over the streets of downtown Chicago.

To mark Advocate's role as the new title sponsor, race organizers will donate $2.00 to Advocate Children's Hospital for every runner who crosses the finish line. More than 2,700 participants crossed the finished line last fall, a number that is expected to increase this fall.

Marathon	2:03:51 (London, 2016)
Half marathon	58:56 (Ras Al Khaimah, 2013)

Career overview

Biwott will make his Chicago Marathon debut as the seventh fastest man in history over the marathon distance (2:03:51) and the 11th fastest man in history over the half marathon on a record eligible course (58:56). Biwott made his mark in the AbbottWMM with a victory at the 2015 New York City Marathon by dominating the final 10K in 28:35 (his road 10K PR is 28:00). He followed that race with a standout performance at the 2016 London Marathon, finishing second to Eliud Kipchoge in a career best, 2:03:51 (Biwott and Kipchoge share the 30K world record, 1:27:13, set during the London Marathon). Biwott has finished in the top five of ten marathons, including winning his debut marathon in Brazil in 2010, the 2011 Chunchon Marathon and the 2012 Paris Marathon.

Biwott entered the 2016 Olympic Games as a strong medal contender, but dropped out shortly after the 22-mile mark, citing stomach problems. He closed out 2016 with a DNF at the New York City Marathon, and he was forced to withdraw from the 2017 London Marathon due to a persistent hamstring injury. If Biwott toes the line in Chicago healthy, he should finish on the podium. He is a smart runner who can race well with or without pacers.

Personal

Biwott's older brother, Norris Kipkemboi Biwott, is a 2:11:29 marathoner.

Career overview

On Twitter, Braun describes himself by writing, "I love my wife and baby girls, sometimes I like running." Running loves Braun. He was a self-professed "mediocre" high school runner with modest PRs, but he smashed mediocrity at Division II Adams State where he emerged as a 16-time All-American with six national titles. Today Braun stands out as one of the most versatile American runners from 5000m to the marathon, boasting PRs of 13:20.25 for 5000m, 27:41.54 for 10,000m, 1:01:38 for the half and 2:12:54 for the marathon.

Braun started his professional career with a fifth place finish in the 10,000m at the 2012 U.S. Olympic Trials and he grabbed headlines in 2013 when he won the U.S. 12K National Championships. He made his marathon debut in 2014 (2:19:51) and ran his personal best 10 months later in Houston, finishing as the top American in 2:12:54. Injuries derailed him from running the 2016 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials, but he returned to racing in the fall of 2016 to capture the crown at the Big Sur Half Marathon. While 2017 has not been a banner year for Braun, it has been a good year. He finished fifth at the U.S. 25K National Championships in May, and he won the Sacramento SacTown 10 mile in April. With a pair of top 10 finishes in just two career marathons, Braun is still an exciting newcomer to the 42K distance.

2013 U.S. 5K Champion

Personal records

Marathon 2:13:58 (Tokyo, 2017)
Half marathon 1:02:04 (New York, 2015)

Career overview

Bumbalough showed immense promise as a high school runner – arguably the best high school runner ever to materialize from the state of Tennessee – when he finished his career with 10 state championships in cross country and track. He graduated from Brentwood Academy in 2005 and started his collegiate jaunt at Georgetown where he accumulated six All-American honors and cemented his reputation as a 5000m star. He reached the Olympic "A" standard in the 5000m in 2012, but his Olympic dream was deferred when he finished a heartbreaking fourth in the final. He rebounded in 2013 by becoming the U.S. 5K national champion.

Bumbalough's marathon debut came after "a long gestation period," according to the Bowerman Track Club, where he is a member. While he exhibited signs of a strong marathon runner early on, injuries sidelined him from making his debut in 2015, and from competing in the 2016 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials. He finally made his debut this February in Tokyo, running a steady and controlled pace to finish in 2:13:58. Following Tokyo, he took part in the Nike Breaking2 project as a pacer for 2014 Chicago Marathon champion Eliud Kipchoge. He clicked off a series of 4:35 miles in an attempt to lead Kipchoge to history's first sub two-hour marathon. While Kipchoge missed the mark by a mere 25 seconds, Bumbalough gained a new perspective for the marathon distance.

"It was pretty out-of-this world stuff," he told the Scene. "It was really cool to see an athlete like Kipchoge to be so relaxed and so comfortable and so confident about his ability to do it." Bumbalough has represented the U.S. on the track in the 5000m at the 2011 IAAF World Championships, finishing ninth, and at the 2014 IAAF Continental Cup, finishing seventh. He also represented the U.S. at the IAAF World Cross Country Championships in 2011. He made his global debut as a junior competitor in the 1500m in 2006.

Personal records

Marathon	2:06:07 (Amsterdam, 2016)
Half marathon	59:05 (Lille, 2012)

Career overview

Chebii started running internationally as a teenager in 2009. After a brief attempt at a track career, he quickly moved to the roads where he excelled in the 10K distance. He dipped under 28:00 on the roads in 2010 and he used that speed to make his half marathon debut in 2011. By 2012, he became the 16th fastest man in history over the half marathon distance when he set a course record in Lille, 59:05. Given his half marathon speed, expectations were high for his marathon debut, and Chebii delivered, opening his marathon career in 2014 in style (he DNF'd his first attempt in 2012). He won the Madrid Marathon and set both a course and an all-comers record (2:09:15). He returned to Madrid in 2015 to pick up another win, and he finally hit his stride in the marathon in 2016 when he ran closer to his potential in Amsterdam, finishing fifth in 2:06:07. Prior to that breakthrough, most of his marathon times hovered in the 2:09-2:12 range.

Chebii started his 2017 season at the Otsu Lake Biwa Marathon fit and ready to run 2:06, but strong winds spoiled his ambitions. In spite of less than ideal conditions, he still finished first in 2:09:06. The Bank of America Chicago Marathon marks his first time competing in the AbbottWMM series.

Personal

Chebii has trained with some great marathon runners, including Moses Mosop, Wilson Chebet and 2014 and 2015 Chicago Marathon runner up, Sammy Kitwara. When asked if his training partners would stop and wait for him to tie his shoe if one of his laces came untied, Chebii smiled and said, "no, no."

2015 U.S. 12K Champion

Personal records

Marathon 1:01:04 (Boston, 2013)
Half marathon 27:08.39 (Palo Alto, 2010 – NCAA record)

Career overview

Sam Chelanga, a back-to-back NCAA cross country champion and a two-time NCAA champion in the 5000m and 10,000m and the NCAA 10,000m record holder (27:08.39), will make his second attempt at the marathon distance. After becoming a U.S. citizen in 2015, Chelanga (with a half marathon personal best of 1:01:04) made his marathon debut at the 2016 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials. After briefly moving to the front of the race amid hot and humid conditions, he eventually lost contact with the lead pack and dropped out. In 2015 and 2016, Chelanga won the U.S. 10 Mile championships, and he started 2017 with a bang, winning both the World's Best 10K in San Juan and the New York Healthy Kidney 10K; he also finished 11th at the IAAF World Cross Country Championships and third at the U.S. 20K Championships.

Chelanga made history as a collegiate athlete at Liberty University, repeatedly smashing school and course records (and engaging in some epic battles with fellow Chicago Marathon competitor, Galen Rupp). In 2010, he became the first back-to-back IC4A 5K champion in program history, he enjoyed the largest margin of victory (25 seconds) at the NCAA Division I Cross Country Championships since 1996, and in 2011, he went undefeated in cross country.

Personal

Chelanga was the 10th of 11 children born in a small village in Kenya. His brother, Joshua, was a professional runner with a personal best of 2:07:05 (run in Berlin in 2004). His brother trained with former world record holder and legend, Paul Tergat. While Chelanga initially wanted to become a lawyer, Tergat convinced him that he needed to take up running in order to receive a scholarship and fulfill his dreams of receiving a college education. With Tergat's help, Chelanga was able to secure a visa and a scholarship to Farleigh Dickinson University in New Jersey. He transferred to Liberty University after a year. Outside of running, Chelanga and his wife, Marybeth, have been instrumental in providing water filters to his home village in Kabarsel.

2013, 2014, 2015 U.S. Cross Country Champion

Personal records

Marathon debut
Half marathon 1:01:12 (New York, 2017)

Career overview

Derrick made a name for himself as a high school student at Neuqua Valley High School in Naperville, Ill. where he won the 2007 Illinois state cross country championships. He made a smooth transition to Stanford University where he set the former American junior 5000m record (13:29.98) and became a 14-time All-American. He is one of only six athletes to finish in the top 10 at the NCAA championships four times, and he still holds the fastest collegiate 10,000m time ever run by an American, 27:31.38. As a professional athlete with the Bowerman Track Club, he became a three-time U.S. Cross Country national champion (2013-2015), and he finished fourth in the 2012 U.S. Olympic Trials 10,000m. Early in his professional career, he looked unstoppable, but his training from 2013-2015 was frequently interrupted by injuries and a series of starts and stops. Derrick re-emerged in good form in 2016 (he finished fifth in the U.S. Olympic Trials 10,000m), and he will be making his much anticipated marathon debut on the heels of two standout performances: a 1:01:12 at the New York City half marathon, and as one of the elite pacers for Nike's Breaking2 project (where 2014 Chicago Marathon champion Eliud Kipchoge became the fastest marathoner in history with a stunning 2:00:25 performance).

Derrick left Italy inspired by both his experience as a pacer and by Kipchoge's calm, confident demeanor. He later explained to Runner's World: "I was already pretty excited to run a marathon but now in some ways I'm more inspired and in some ways more afraid, because seeing that a person can run that pace for that long is almost scary. I've been moving towards the marathon stuff for a while Being around guys that have run 2:05 has given me new perspective—hopefully it will help me aim higher in my career."

Half marathon 1:01:48 (New York, 2017)

Career overview

Droddy's image went viral after his appearance at the 2016 U.S. Olympic Trials 10,000m. His hippie-like long hair, tinted sunglasses, backwards hat and mustache set off a Twitter and social media bonanza with everyone asking the same question, "Who is Noah Droddy?" One headline went so far as to call Droddy the "Mustachioed, beer-drinking hero who crashed the Trials." But Droddy didn't crash the Trials; he qualified like every other runner on the start line . . . he just had a bad day and finished last. Since then, the former two-time All-American Division III Depauw University star has made a statement in the sport and gained national respect. He finished second at the 2016 U.S. 10 Mile Championships (on the heels of Sam Chelanga) and ninth at the U.S. Half Marathon Championships. He is a two-time Olympic Trials qualifier, and his most recent performance, a 1:01:48 half marathon, speaks volumes about his potential in the marathon (Droddy made his official debut at the 2016 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials, but dropped out). Droddy trains in Boulder, CO with the Roots Running Project.

Personal

On the Roots Running Project website (rootsrunning.org), Droddy explains his story this way: "I ran by a front lawn the other day. A mother was pushing her son in a swing hanging from a tree. He said, 'Mom, why is that man running?' She answered, 'Well, honey, some people like to run.' A smile on my face, I thought, 'That about covers it.' In Boulder, by way of Indiana. Thankful for the successes I've had and those that got me there."

Personal records

Marathon	2:10:52 (Gold Coast, AUS 2014)
Half marathon	1:02:41 (Houston, 2015)

Career overview

Eggleston, a veteran of 20 marathons, made his debut quietly in 2010, debuting in 2:14:32 and then finishing second at the U.S. Marathon Championships. Over the past seven years, he has been a consistent performer and a steady presence on U.S. national teams, competing in the 2011, 2013 and 2015 IAAF World Marathon Championships and the 2011 Pan-American Games. He finished as high as 13th in the world championships and eighth in an AbbottWMM (Boston 2014). Eggleston first raised eyebrows at the 2011 Pittsburgh Marathon when he was contracted to pace the first 18 miles. Instead of dropping out, he hammered to the finish and won. He ran his personal best, 2:10:52, at the 2014 Gold Coast Airport Marathon in Australia, and he entered the 2016 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials with the fourth fastest qualifying time (he finished 13th).

Eggleston, a prolific racer, competed in his first Chicago Marathon in 2012, finishing 16th, and he has continued to run well in the U.S. AbbottWMM events, including a 14th place in New York (2013) and a twelfth place in Boston (2015). He kicked off 2017 with back-to-back-to back-to-back marathons, finishing 27th at the Beppu-Oita Marathon in February, finishing fourth in Warsaw in April, winning the Movistar Marathon in Lima, Peru in May and then taking the crown at the San Diego Rock 'n' Roll Marathon in June. Unlike most professional runners who compete in one to two marathons per year, the Chicago Marathon marks Eggleston's fifth marathon in 2017.

Personal

Eggleston trains alone and tends to avoid the spotlight. He explained his philosophy to Competitor in 2015: "I keep pretty quiet and I don't share a lot of what I do, and I think it works to my advantage. You can be pretty quiet and run 2:12 or 2:10 and even finish 13th in the world championships. But I love that. It also keeps me grounded in reality because, although I'm really happy with the things I've been doing, it also keeps me really hungry. And it really makes me appreciate where I have been the last few years and really wanting to seize the opportunities I have now and be able to maximize my potential in the major races and championship races."

Half marathon 1:00:51 (Houston, 2015)
10,000m 27:30.53 (Eugene, 2015)

Career overview

Diego Estrada took the running world by storm when he won the 2015 U.S. Half Marathon Championships in Houston, turning in the seventh fastest time in American history, 1:00:51. Comparisons to American record holder Ryan Hall followed and many in the sport eagerly awaited Estrada's marathon debut. He finally made his 26.2-mile entrance at the 2016 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials in Los Angeles. He hung with the leaders for 18 miles before succumbing to the heat and dropping out. Estrada attempted to make the U.S. Olympic team one more time on the track, finishing a distant 11th in the 5000m - well outside of the position he needed to represent the United States in Rio (prior to the 5000m, he dropped out of the 10,000m). Overall, Estrada ranks 14th on the all-time list of fastest American men over 10,000m (27:30.53).

Estrada made a solid post-Trials comeback by ending his 2016 season at the Chicago Marathon with an eighth place finish in 2:13:56 despite a fall at the 10K aid station. He kicked off his 2017 season with a 1:01:54 eighth place at the New York City half marathon and a second place finish at the Bank of America Shamrock Shuffle 8K.

Born in Mexico but raised in the U.S., Estrada represented Mexico at the 2012 London Olympic Games in the 10,000m, making the final and finishing 21st in 28:36. At the time, he was already an accomplished runner at Northern Arizona University. He graduated from NAU in 2013 as a nine-time All-American. He became a U.S. citizen in 2014 and won his first U.S. title soon after at the 5K Road Championships.

Career overview

Gregg made his marathon debut in Chicago in 2014 in 2:18:30. He went on to run in the 2016 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials, but he dropped out before the nine-mile mark. His only other career marathon was last year at the California International Marathon – he finished just outside of his PR in 2:18:33. Gregg is no stranger to the streets of Chicago, though. He raced well in the highly competitive Bank of America Shamrock Shuffle 8K in 2014, 2015 and 2016, finishing second, fourth and seventh, respectively.

Gregg, a two-time NCAA All-American in Track & Field, and a member of Stanford's third place team at the 2009 NCAA Cross Country Championships, has made his reputation on the track. He finished eighth in the 10,000m at the 2016 U.S. Olympic Trials and he set a new personal best in the 10,000m in 2015, 28:03.27, making him the eleventh fastest American that year.

Gregg and his sister, Kaitlin Gregg Goodman, were the first brother and sister to compete in the U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials on the same day.

Marathon 02:15:58 (Hartford, 2015)
Half marathon 01:03:57 (Houston, 2015)

Career overview

Jonas Hampton gained media attention after his debut marathon at the 2015 Hartford Marathon. While he considered making his debut at the 2016 U.S. Olympic Trials (he qualified based on his half marathon time), he ultimately decided to tackle the distance beforehand. After running with a small pack for 16 miles, Hampton made a break up a hill and never looked back. He went into the race expecting to run around 2:18, and then he experienced the kind of debut all runners hope for: he exceeded his expectations, achieved the Olympic Trials "A" standard and added a victory to his resume. He also ended a 19-year drought for the state of Connecticut – he was the first person from the state to win the race since 1996.

Hampton, a University of Hartford graduate and a full-time highway design engineer, didn't have the race he dreamed of having at the Trials. In spite of struggling with the heat over the final 13 miles of the course, he hung on to finish in the top 50. Hampton has spent a large portion of his 2017 season on the track honing his speed. His eighth place finish at the U.S. 20K Championships shows that his marathon training is on pace for Chicago.

Marathon 2:14:39 (San Diego, 2011)
 Half marathon 1:03:58 (New Orleans, 2011)

Career overview

This year will be Humphrey's sixth Chicago Marathon appearance. He debuted at the 2004 race and has finished as high as 12th in 2010. He was one of the first, and has been one of the most consistent members, of the Hansons-Brooks Distance Project for the past 13 years. He ran a personal best, 2:14:39, at the 2011 Rock 'n' Roll San Diego Marathon, which gave him top American honors and fifth place overall. He has been a top-12 finisher at the Chicago, Boston and New York City marathons, and he has qualified for three U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials (2008, 2012 and 2016).

Humphrey and some of his teammates coach runners of all abilities as part of Hanson's Coaching Services, LLC. In 2012, he wrote a book, Hansons Marathon Method, along with his coaches, Keith and Kevin Hanson. To date, the book has received positive reviews and led to many runners setting new personal bests.

 Citizenship: Kenya
 Residence: Eldoret
 Sponsor: Adidas

Personal records

Marathon 2:06:19 (Amsterdam, 2015)
 Half marathon 59:10 (Rotterdam, 2009)

Career overview

Kipyego returns to Chicago after finishing third in 2011 and sixth in 2012. He started his international career 14 years ago as a junior competitor and he has represented Kenya on the track (5000m and 10,000m), in cross country and on the roads. He picked up a silver medal in cross country at the IAAF World Championships as a junior in 2005 and a bronze medal in the senior competition in 2007. He amassed another silver medal at the 2009 IAAF World Half Marathon Championships where he clocked a swift 59:59 but he failed to match the dominating foot-speed of Zersenay Tadese (Tadese won in 59:35). He has consistently run under 60 minutes in the half marathon six times and under 2:07 in the marathon five times; he set his current personal best, 2:06:19, in Amsterdam in 2015. While he has fared well in the Abbott World Marathon Majors series, a victory continues to elude him; he has finished third in Boston and Chicago, and second and third in Tokyo. Outside of the AbbottWMM competition, he won the Amsterdam Marathon twice (2014, 2015).

2009 and 2011 IAAF World Marathon Champion

Personal records

Marathon	2:05:04 (Rotterdam, 2009)
Half marathon	1:00:11 (Rotterdam, 2007)

Career overview

Kirui returns to Chicago to defend his Chicago Marathon title after putting on a show in 2016, out-dueling Dickson Chumba to the line in a tactical race that saw pace swings from 4:33 per mile to 5:24 per mile. Kirui battled Chumba, the 2015 Chicago Marathon champion, for the final two and a half miles until Kirui launched an attack that Chumba could not match. In spite of running the slowest winning time since 1993, 2:11:23, Chicago Marathon Executive Race Director Carey Pinkowski called the race “spirited,” “entertaining” and “great theater.” Kirui entertained fans with a dance at the finish line.

Kirui knows how to win major championship races, and he fares particularly well when the race is more strategic and tactical than paced like a time trial. He took home a silver medal at the 2012 London Olympic Games in the marathon, and he stood on top of the podium at the 2009 and 2011 IAAF World Marathon Championships. In addition to his major championship wins, he won the 2008 Vienna Marathon, and he finished as the runner-up at the 2007 Berlin Marathon. Kirui set his PR, 2:05:04, at the 2009 Rotterdam Marathon.

Kirui has lined up at all of the AbbottWMM (although he started Boston in 2015, he did not finish). A lack of pacemakers, a solid showing in London this spring and the confidence that comes with being a defending champion should position Kirui well for another top finish in Chicago.

Personal

Kirui founded the Great Joy Educational Centre in Eldoret, Kenya. The Great Joy Educational Centre is a boarding school that helps children in poverty to receive a primary school education. Kirui regularly visits students to “speak with them and check on their happiness and well-being.” greatjoykenya.org

Personal records

Marathon	2:05:16 (Dubai, 2016)
Half marathon	1:01:11 (Berlin, 2016)

Career overview

Lemma began his career running barefoot at the age of 17, and while many young athletes start on the track or in cross country, Lemma shot straight to the marathon. He made his debut in 2012 by winning the Capri Marathon in 2:11:58. Over the past five years, he has won a total of four marathons, including an historic win in Vienna in 2015. He outran the elite field by four minutes, the largest margin of victory in the event's history. In 2015, he also became the first Ethiopian to win the Frankfurt Marathon. His biggest time breakthrough came in Dubai in 2016 when he broke 2:06 and ran 2:05:16. He followed Dubai with his first appearances in the AbbottWMM series. He ran in London and Berlin, impressing in both with seventh and fourth place finishes, respectively. While Lemma is relatively new to the AbbottWMM, he is an exciting athlete who seems to thrive on flat and fast courses like Chicago.

2016 Rio Olympic Games Marathon Silver Medalist

Personal records

Marathon	2:04:52 (Chicago, 2012)
Half marathon	59:22 (Houston, 2012)

Career overview

Just two months after his 20th birthday in 2010, Lilesa became the youngest athlete to break 2:06 in the marathon with his 2:05:23 performance in Rotterdam. He went on to finish third at the 2010 Chicago Marathon, and he captured the bronze medal at the 2011 IAAF World Championships. Lilesa is known as an aggressive front-runner who isn't afraid to chase the leaders on record pace. This strategy has seen him either finish strong with a fast time or lose speed over the final miles before ultimately fading out of contention.

One of his most successful front-running tactics came at the 2012 Chicago Marathon where he battled it out with fellow countryman, Tsegaye Kebede, over the final miles of the course. Kebede broke the tape first, but both men cracked 2:05.

Lilesa recently gained international attention following his Olympic silver medal at the Rio Olympics. He crossed his arms above his head at the finish line of the marathon to protest Ethiopia's treatment of his ethnic group, the Oromo people. Fearing for his life, Lilesa remained in Brazil and then came to the United States. He received a permanent green card and he has been living and training in Flagstaff. His 2017 season started with a second place finish at the Houston half marathon and a win at the competitive New York City Half Marathon. He struggled in London, but then rebounded with a win at the Bogota Half Marathon.

Career overview

Toshihiko Seko was the last and only runner from Japan to ever win the Chicago Marathon (1986), but Matsumura has the potential to compete with the best athletes in this year's field. He gained international notoriety in 2014 when he was the first runner from Japan across the line at the Tokyo Marathon, finishing eighth in 2:08:09. He made his international marathon debut at the 2014 Incheon Asian Games where he finished second by just one second. Following the race, a disappointed Matsumura remarked: "My goal was to win the gold medal. I'm glad I could run well, but it's very disappointing not to get the gold. I have to train much harder."

Matsumura started his year with a fifth place finish at the Otsu Lake Biwa Marathon in 2:11:04. This October marks his first time competing outside of Asia.

Marathon 2:12:11 (Nobeoka, 2014)
Half marathon 1:04:13 (Osaka, 2016)

Career overview

Matsuo returns to Chicago after starting his 2017 season with a win at the Nobeoka Marathon. He struggled in his first Chicago Marathon and AbbottWMM appearance last fall, faltering over the second half of the race. In addition to running the Chicago Marathon in 2016, he has only raced one other marathon outside of Japan: Paris in 2013.

After making his marathon debut in 2012 in 2:18:15, he has steadily improved, dropping his personal best to 2:12:11 to finish second at the 2014 Nobeoka Marathon. Matsuo trains up to 187 miles/week with a 31-mile long run. He says his hardest workout is running 25K (15.5 miles) in the morning and 30K (18.6 miles) in the afternoon for a total of 55K or 34 miles in one day.

Personal records

Marathon 2:11:50 (Tokyo, 2014)
 Half marathon 1:00:53 (Yamaguchi, 2012)

Career overview

Miyawaki was dubbed the hottest distance runner in Japan after he won the 2012 Yamaguchi Japan Industrial Teams Half Marathon Championships as a 20-year-old in a Japanese debut record, 1:00:53. His half marathon PR makes him the fifth fastest Japanese half marathon runner of all time, and his 10,000m on the track, 27:41.57, makes him the 10th fastest Japanese runner over 10,000m in history. Expectations were exceedingly high for Miyawaki's marathon debut in 2014. While he didn't disappoint with a 15th place finish and a 2:11:50, his track speed and half marathon PR point to faster times on the horizon.

The 2017 Chicago Marathon marks Miyawaki's first AbbottWMM competition, and his first time racing in the U.S. With just two marathons on his legs, he remains a relative newcomer and a bit of a wildcard.

Career overview

"With 10K to go, just get on the pony and ride. I was all-out, I think. I imagined myself to be Usain Bolt, but probably looked like Luke Puskedra out there." – Luke Puskedra, 2015 Chicago Marathon post-race interview

Luke Puskedra arrived in Grant Park in 2015 with a 2:15:27 PR and the confidence that he was ready to exchange that time for a much better one. In a race without pacesetters for the first time in more than two decades, Puskedra settled into the lead pack, his lanky 6'4" inch frame towering over the much smaller runners around him. With a calm cadence, he passed the half in 1:05:13, and he remained in the lead group until Dickson Chumba threw down a 4:35 20th mile to shake things up. Puskedra kept a consistent, steady pace, enough to run a five-minute PR, 2:10:24, earn a top five finish and turn in the fastest time by an American in 2015. He became just the sixth American over the last two decades to score a top five finish at the Chicago Marathon. Puskedra returned to Chicago in 2016 seeking another breakthrough race, but he struggled to reclaim his 2015 form. He finished 19th in 2:20:18. He started 2017 with a stronger performance in Boston, finishing ninth in 2:14:45.

Puskedra gained a broader audience two years ago when he emerged as the comeback story of the year: after a highly anticipated, but disappointing debut at the 2014 New York City Marathon (2:28:54), he briefly quit the sport and gained 23 pounds. But he didn't give up. He slowly climbed his way back, and he was a favorite to make the 2016 Olympic marathon team, but he finished one spot off the podium in fourth place – his Olympic dream postponed until 2020.

Puskedra graduated from the University of Oregon in 2012, where he was an 11-time NCAA All-American; he made a seamless transition to the roads even before he finished his collegiate career. During his senior year, he excited fans with his half marathon debut in Houston, finishing in fourth place in 1:01:36.

10,000m	26:44.36 (Eugene, 2012)
5000m	12:58.90 (Eugene, 2012)

Career overview

Rupp, a three-time Olympian, an eight-time USATF 10,000m champion and a member of the Nike Oregon Project, made his marathon debut in 2016 by winning the U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials. He currently owns four American records in the 10,000m (26:44.36), indoor 3,000m (7:30.16), indoor two-mile (8:07.41) and indoor 5,000m (13:01.26). He is the 15th fastest man in history over 10,000m, and his 5000m PR, 12:58.90, puts him in an exclusive category of American runners – he is one of only six Americans to break 13:00 for the distance.

At the 2012 London Olympics, Rupp became the first American since 1964 to earn a medal in the 10,000m; he captured the silver after throwing down a final 400m lap in a blazing 53.8 seconds. At the 2016 Rio Olympics, he earned a bronze medal in the marathon, proving that he can compete with the best on the global stage (and eight days earlier, he placed fifth in the 10,000m final). He followed his Olympic performance with a dazzling run in Boston in April, finishing second to Geoffrey Kirui in 2:09:58. It took Kirui 24 miles to finally shake the American off the top of the podium.

Following Boston, Rupp explained, "I was hurting a lot the last 3 or 4 miles. ... You've got to dig down deep and just find whatever it is to hold onto to drive you through the finish line. That's what I tried to do today. Even though it wasn't necessarily the result I wanted, I was very, very happy the way I was able to close it out."

Rupp returned to his roots on the track in June, winning the Portland Track Festival 10,000m and the Portland Stumptown 5000m, but his failure to capture his ninth consecutive 10,000m U.S. championship on the track marked the end of an era. Rupp has run the 10,000m at the Olympic Games or World Championships every year since 2007, and he remained undefeated at the U.S. Championships from 2009-2016. But as his track career draws to a close, his marathon career is just heating up.

Half marathon	1:00:41 (Boston, 2013)
10,000m	26:54.61 (Eugene, 2014)
8K Road (world best)	22:01.1 (Boston, 2014)

Career overview

Stephen Sambu, a native of Kenya living and training in Arizona, stands out as one of the strongest competitors on the road racing circuit today. He made his marathon debut in Chicago in 2016, finishing fifth in 2:13:35 (the winning time in 2016 was the slowest since 1993). He enters this year's race with more experience and with another Bank of America Shamrock Shuffle 8K title to his name – he scored the hat trick in April when he claimed victory for the third year in a row. He now owns the fourth, sixth and fourteenth fastest times in Shamrock Shuffle 8K history.

Sambu ran into the record books in 2014 when he posted a 22:01.1 8K en route to a 10K victory at the B.A.A. 10K. His time stands as the current world best, making him the fastest man in history over the 8K distance. He is on a roll in 2017, opening his season with a fourth place finish at the competitive New York Half Marathon, and then claiming second at the Boston B.A.A. 5K and 10K, third at the San Juan World's Best 10K and third at the New York Healthy Kidney 10K. Sambu regularly performs well, and after picking up back-to-back-to-back Shamrock Shuffle 8K titles, he is treated like a hometown hero by Chicago fans.

Prior to bursting onto the professional road running circuit, Sambu spent some time in Illinois at Rend Lake Junior College where he captured 10 individual national championships, including two NJCAA national cross country titles. He finished his career at the University of Arizona as a nine-time NCAA All-American, and the 2011 PAC 10 10,000m champion and the 2012 PAC 12 10,000m champion. Sambu holds PRs of 13:13 in the 5,000m, 26:54 in the 10,000m and 1:00:41 in the half marathon. His 10K best on the road, 27:25, is the 18th fastest time in history.

2014 Commonwealth Games Champion

2010 Commonwealth Games Silver medalist

Personal records

Marathon	2:11:15 (Glasgow, 2014)
Half marathon	1:01:27 (New York, 2012)

Career overview

Shelley, a two-time Olympian in the marathon (2012, 2016), began running at the age of 13. He focused his early efforts on shorter distances, and he made his global debut as a junior competitor in the steeplechase in 2002. From 2002-2009, he primarily competed in shorter distances, but when injuries overtook his career, he contemplated giving up the sport. Fortunately, his coach persuaded him to give longer distances a shot, and it paid off.

Shelley made his marathon debut in Rotterdam in 2010, finishing 12th in 2:13:05. He chased his debut with a silver medal at the 2010 Commonwealth Games, and his real breakthrough came in 2014 when he took the gold at the Commonwealth Games in a personal best, 2:11:15. He became the first Australian to win the Commonwealth Games men's marathon since Steve Moneghetti in 1994. Shelley made his Bank of America Chicago Marathon debut in 2013, finishing 12th in 2:13:11.

Outside of the marathon, Shelley has represented Australia at the IAAF World Cross Country Championships in 2004, 2007, 2008 and 2009, and at the IAAF World Half Marathon Championships in 2008 (16th place) and 2016 (20th place).

Half Marathon World Record holder (58:23)
2007, 2008, 2009 and 2012 IAAF World Half Marathon Champion
2007 IAAF World Cross Country Champion
2006 IAAF World 20K Champion
2004 Olympic 10,000m Bronze medalist

Marathon 2:10:41 (London, 2012)
Half marathon 58:23 (Lisbon, 2010)
10,000m 26:37.25 (Brussels, 2006)

Career overview

Tadese arrives in Chicago beaming with untapped marathon potential. He reigns as the current half marathon world record holder (58:23), and he is a four-time Olympian, a four-time IAAF World Half Marathon champion, a one-time IAAF World 20K champion (2006) and a one-time IAAF World Cross Country champion (2007). He won the bronze medal at the 2004 Athens Olympic Games in the 10,000m and he is the eighth fastest man in history over the distance (26:37.25).

Tadese, who got his start in sports as a cyclist and then switched into serious running in 2002, has only finished three marathons: London in 2010 and 2012 and the Nike Breaking2 marathon this past spring (he recorded a DNF in Chicago in 2013 and Boston in 2015). While his official personal best is 2:10:41, he ran 2:06:51 in the Breaking2 marathon (times from the Nike Breaking2 marathon were not eligible for records). In the lead up to the Breaking2 marathon, Tadese was referred to as the "Rocky Balboa" of the group (the three men attempting to break two hours included Tadese, Eliud Kipchoge and Lelisa Desisa). Given his speed over 10,000m and 21K, he should be in the hunt for a top finish.

Personal

Tadese's younger brother, Kidane Tadese, is a 5000m/10,000m and cross country specialist; he finished sixth at the 2006 World Junior Championships in the 5000m, and he was a double finalist at both the Beijing Olympic Games (10th at 5000m, 12th at 10,000m) and the World Championships in Berlin in 2009 (9th at 10,000m).

Personal records

Marathon 2:38:47 (Chicago, 2016)
Half marathon 1:14:24 (Duluth, 2014)

Career overview

Caitlin Chrisman enters this year's elite athlete field as a sub 2:40-runner. She broke the 2:40 barrier last fall in Chicago by running a smart, controlled and balanced race; she also earned the accolade of being the first Bank of America employee, male or female, to cross the line. Chrisman has not raced much in 2017, but her showing at the San Francisco Bay to Breakers 12K in May indicates that she is in strong form.

Chrisman qualified for the U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials in both 2012 and 2016. Although she dropped out of the Trials before mile 10, she continued her build up to Chicago with a pair of victories on the road in the half marathon and 10K. What makes Chrisman's running journey so compelling is that she fits her training into a full-time job as the Digital Innovation Lead at Bank of America.

Prior to graduating from Wake Forest University after a standout career, Chrisman called Carbondale, IL home. She earned eight varsity letters at Carbondale High School, finishing third in the Illinois State Cross Country Championships in 2002, second in the 3200m and fourth in the 1600m. She was valedictorian of her high school class.

Chrisman documents her training on her blog, "See Red Run" at caitchris.blogspot.com.

Personal

Chrisman was raised a vegetarian.

Career overview

Sarah Crouch started 2016 unable to compete in the U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials, where she entered with the 17th fastest qualifying time in a field of more than 250 qualifiers. While a hip injury upset her dreams of representing her country in Rio, she rallied in time to compete in the Boston Marathon. She finished 11th overall and was the second American to finish. After regaining her confidence in Boston, she came to Chicago in the fall for the third time. With her sights set on breaking 2:30, she went out on 5:44 pace and hit the half in 1:15. She lost steam over the second half, but she hung on to finish inside of the top 10 and just 64 seconds shy of her personal best in 2:33:48.

Crouch made a name for herself in the marathon at the 2014 Chicago Marathon. She lopped almost 12 minutes off of her previous PR and placed seventh in a personal best, 2:32:44. She returned in 2015 with another strong performance, finishing 12th in 2:32:51.

Crouch, a 13-time All-American at Western Washington University and a 2011 NCAA Division II National Champion in the 10,000m, started running professionally with ZAP-Reebok fresh out of college. In one of her first races as a professional runner, she finished fifth at the U.S. 10 Mile Championships. In 2011, she made her marathon debut in New York and qualified for the U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials, and in 2012, she qualified for the U.S. Olympic Trials in the 10,000m. She kept her momentum going, and in 2013, she captured her highest finish at a U.S. Championship when she placed third at the Cherry Blossom 10 Mile. Her time of 54:15 was faster than the American Record.

Personal

Crouch's mom became an elite masters marathoner at the age of 42, posting a 2:49 marathon time. Her grandma began running in her 50s and completed several ultra-marathons. Crouch herself knows how to ride a unicycle and play the trombone.

10,000m	29:42.56 (Rio de Janeiro, 2016)
5,000m	14:11.15 (Oslo, 2008)

Career overview

Dibaba – a legend on the track and over the grass - started 2017 by becoming the third fastest female marathon runner of all time when she finished second in London in 2:17:56. Her recent performances, including a 1:06:50 half marathon PR, and her stellar track record could put Paula Radcliffe’s 2002 course record, 2:17:18, in jeopardy. From the grass to the oval to the road, many view Dibaba as the queen of distance running. In a recent interview, she said, “I’ve always been building to marathons. I want to use my 10K foot speed and make history (in Chicago).” Chicago is ready for history to be made.

Dibaba’s list of career accomplishments nearly spans the marathon distance: she is a three-time Olympic gold medalist, a three-time Olympic bronze medalist, a three-time world champion in the 10,000m, a two-time world champion in the 5000m, a nine-time Golden League champion, a seven-time Diamond League champion, a five-time World Champion in cross country (including one junior championship) and the current 5000m world record holder (14:11.15). She has set four world records during her career.

Dibaba, who was 18-years-old when she won her first world title, made her marathon debut in 2014 with a third place finish in London in 2:20:35. She took 2015 off to welcome her first child; she announced her comeback in Rio with a bronze medal on the track in the 10,000m. Most recently, she won the silver medal in the 10,000m at the IAAF World Championships. At the age of 32, Dibaba – the “baby faced destroyer” - is one of the best runners in history, and her marathon career is just getting started.

Personal

Dibaba’s family is like Ethiopian running royalty. Her cousin is Deratu Tulu, the 1992 and 2000 Olympic 10,000m gold medalist. Her sisters, Genzebe and Ejegayehu, are both Olympians, and Tirunesh and Genzebe are the only two siblings in recorded history to hold concurrent world records. In 2008, Tirunesh married Olympic medalist Sileshi Sihine – their wedding was nationally televised, drawing half a million people to the city’s main square where Olympic races are broadcast. Off the track, Tirunesh has become a respected entrepreneur and investor in Ethiopia’s economic growth.

Marathon 2:30:07 (Chicago, 2015)
Half marathon 1:12:52 (København, 2014)

Career overview

Jessica Draskau Petersson, a late bloomer in the sport, returns to the Chicago Marathon after struggling last year and recording her first career DNF. In 2015, she set her PR in the windy city and finished in the top 10. She will line up on October 8 as a newly established masters runner, and while the Danish national record, 2:29:34, has been on her radar for a few years, she hasn't verbally committed herself to breaking it.

Draskau Petersson has dual Danish and British citizenship, and she represented Denmark in the marathon at the 2012 London Olympics and the 2016 Rio Olympics (finishing 39th and 40th, respectively). She started her career as an elite duathlete and triathlete; she has collected 11 Ironman finishes and competed in five Duathlon World Championships, winning three individual silver medals and a team silver and gold. In spite of a stellar record as a multi-sport specialist, she eventually found her stride in marathon competitions. She struggled with some significant setbacks early in her career: she was hit five times in three years by cars and motorbikes and one accident in 2007 required knee surgery. She lost four years of competition as a result, and didn't return to the roads until 2011. With her focus singularly on marathons, she has massively improved her times since her debut in 2003.

Marathon 2:34:00 (Chicago, 2016)
Half marathon 1:12:48 (Houston, 2016)

Career overview

"There is no such thing as a perfect training block," Alia Gray wrote on her blog after the U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials. "This is a credence that I firmly believe in, yet have consistently had to re-learn."

Gray entered the Chicago Marathon last year with her sights set firmly on breaking 2:30. She had a strong build up to the race that left her feeling confident and ready to go. She shot out her first 5K on 5:37 pace and hit the half in 1:14:41, well within reach of her goal. But she slowed over the second half and her final 12K pace sailed north of six minute pace. In spite of struggling in the later stages of the race, she finished 10th in a new personal best, 2:34:00.

Gray initially made news in 2016 after enduring an unconventional build-up to the U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials. She rolled her ankle on a training run and just eight weeks before the Trials, she learned that she actually fractured a bone. She relied on an AlterG treadmill to maintain her fitness, and she still ran a 10,000m track PR, followed by a half marathon PR in Houston. She continued training on the AlterG, and as her bone healed, she added some outdoor hard efforts. She lined up for the Trials undertrained with just one 20-mile run to callous her legs, but she felt mentally sharp, confident and prepared. On a day where so many athletes faltered due to tormenting heat, she shined. She finished 10th in 2:35:47.

Gray started running her junior year in high school after knee surgery unsettled her soccer ambitions. She went on to Chico State where she became a four-time All-American (twice in track and field and twice in cross country). She moved to Boulder, CO to pursue her professional running goals, and she has steadily been a strong performer, notching top 10 finishes at the U.S. Track and Field Championships (10th in the 10,000m 2015 & 2017); U.S. Cross Country Championships (8th, 2014); and the U.S. Half Marathon Championships (9th, 2014). The legendary Joe Vigil coaches her.

U.S. Marathon Debut record holder (2:23:00)

2016 U.S. 10 Mile champion

Personal records

Marathon	2:23:00 (Boston, 2017)
Half marathon	1:07:55 (Prague, 2017)

Career overview

Hasay, a member of the Nike Oregon Project, turned heads at the 2017 Boston Marathon with a spectacular debut performance. She finished third in 2:23:00, the fastest marathon debut ever by an American woman by almost three minutes, and the fourth fastest Boston Marathon time in history by an American woman. Most recently, Hasay won the Jacksonville Gate River Run 15K and the U.S. 20K championships.

Before her impressive performance in Boston, she recorded the fourth fastest time ever by an American woman in the half marathon, 1:07:55, at the Prague Half Marathon (only Molly Huddle and Deena Kastor have run faster). While her U.S. national 10 mile championship title in 2016 forecasted her half marathon and marathon potential, Hasay, widely regarded as a strong track runner, was still relatively new to the world of road racing. She changed course after a disappointing 2016 Olympic Trials on the track where she failed to punch her ticket to Rio.

Hasay initially made her name as a high school phenom and a 1,500m runner (she competed in the 2008 Olympic Trials as a high school runner). She was a two-time Foot Locker Cross Country national champion in high school, and a 15-time All-American and two-time NCAA indoor champion in the mile and 3000m at the University of Oregon. The Bank of America Chicago Marathon marks her second go at extending her stride over the marathon distance.

Marathon	2:39:37 (Chicago, 2016)
Half marathon	1:15:52 (Highland Park, 2015)

Career overview

Heckert, a local runner with Full Potential Running/New Balance, will compete in her sixth Chicago Marathon. She ended her 2016 season in Chicago with a breakthrough performance that saw her dip under 2:40 and soar to a 15th place finish and a 2:39:37 PR. Heckert has improved her marathon performances every year since making her debut in Chicago in 2011 in 2:51:04.

In 2016, she finished 27th at the U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials. Two hundred and five women qualified for the Trials and 198 started the race. While many runners became casualties of the heat and humidity in Los Angeles, Heckert thrived. After the Trials, she posted her best 8K time, 26:35, en route to a second place finish at the Bank of America Shamrock Shuffle 8K. She has proved unbeatable on the local Chicago scene in both 2016 and 2017, taking victories at the Big Ten 10K, the 10,000m in Naperville in a PR, 33:03; the North Shore Half Marathon in 1:16:50; the Ravenswood Run 5K in a PR, 15:59; and the Elmhurst 4 on the Fourth in a near PR, 21:41. Heckert's best in the half marathon is 1:15:52.

Heckert competed at Murray State University, College of DuPage and University of Illinois at Chicago. She says overtraining and being "hard headed" contributed to her collegiate struggles. She also came to the sport later. In high school, she focused on basketball and the 300m hurdles and 400m run. She credits her coach (and husband), Michael Lucchesi, with her rise from good local athlete to national elite.

Heckert teaches math and coaches cross country at Plainfield South High School.

Personal records

Marathon 2:34:53 (Boston, 2017)
Half marathon 1:12:55 (La Jolla, 2015)

Career overview

Herrick recently transitioned from being a self-coached runner to a professional athlete with the Hansons-Brooks Distance Project. She experienced a massive breakthrough this spring in Boston, chopping almost six minutes off of her personal best to run 2:34:53. The Chicago Marathon marks her third appearance in an Abbott World Marathon Major (AbbottWMM) and her first time running the Chicago Marathon.

Herrick competed in both the 2012 and 2016 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials, and she has fared well at the Lincoln Marathon, winning in 2015 and placing second in 2013. Before joining the ranks of professional running, she enjoyed a standout career at Truman State University where she set the school record in the 3000m steeplechase (10:58.78). She was an All-American in cross country, and in 2009, she finished third in the Division II Outdoor Championships 3000m steeplechase.

Personal

Herrick, an Iowa native, wrote about her new approach to training with the Hansons-Brooks in the Des Moines Register: "My marathon training segment is a new approach, as [Boston] is the first marathon I have trained under professional coaches and with a professional team. My previous nine marathons have been self-coached and self-controlled. I haven't forgotten how to dance, but this is a whole different song. This marathon stint has differed with: a shorter segment time line, training location variety, higher mileage, more recovery mileage between workouts, different styles of workouts than my past and the impact of a team. In joining Hansons Brooks, I wanted to challenge myself with a different training approach to experience the potential of different results. Each of these areas continue to give me a new and exciting tune to groove to and I am excited to see the work in the dark pay off under the bright lights."

Marathon	2:23:02 (Amsterdam, 2012)
Half marathon	1:08:21 (Lille, 2011)

Career overview

Kipketer returns to the city of big shoulders after finishing third last year in 2:23:41, just 39 seconds off of her personal best. She valiantly hung on to the lead pack until Kiplagat's endurance and fitness proved insurmountable.

Kipketer made her international debut as a junior competitor in 2008, and, as an 18-year-old in 2011, she took her abilities to the road and won three of the five half marathons she competed in, including wins in Lille (where she ran her current PR, 1:08:21) and Berlin. She made her marathon debut a year later in Hamburg and she followed her debut with a win and a course record at the Mumbai Marathon, 2:24:33.

Kipketer was selected to represent Kenya at the 2013 IAAF World Championships Marathon, but she struggled and failed to finish the race. Two months later, she rallied to win the Amsterdam Marathon, setting a new PR, 2:23:02. After a maternity break in 2015, last year marked a comeback year for Kipketer. She proved her fitness was in tact in Chicago, and she started 2017 on a positive note with a sixth place finish in Boston.

Personal

Kipketer is the sister of elite marathon runner, Gideon Kipketer. Both Gideon and Valentine have recorded victories at the Mumbai Marathon, and both hold the Mumbai Marathon course record. The brother-sister duo also took home third place finishes in Chicago in 2016.

Half Marathon	1:05:09 (Barcelona, 2015)
10,000m	30:11.53 (Utrecht, 2009)

Career overview

Kiplagat returns to chase her third title in a row and her fourth podium finish (she finished second in 2014 and won in 2015 and 2016). She is the fifteenth fastest woman in history over the marathon distance with a personal best of 2:19:44. For the past two years, she dazzled fans in Chicago with an aggressive front-running style that saw her put in 26.2 miles of hard work; her winning time from last fall, 2:21:32, was the thirteenth fastest women's time in Chicago Marathon history and the fifth fastest time run in 2016.

Kiplagat, the 2010 IAAF World Half Marathon champion, held the half marathon world record until earlier this year (her PR of 1:05:09 now ranks her third on the all-time list). Her accolades include wins in Berlin in 2011 and 2013, and an IAAF World Cross Country title in 2009. She faces an exceptionally strong contender this fall in Tirunesh Dibaba. She lined up against Dibaba this spring in London and she failed to keep pace with both Dibaba and eventual winner Mary Keitany. But Kiplagat has more experience on Chicago's flat and fast course, and at the marathon distance; she has finished in the top 10 of her 11 career marathons.

Personal

Kiplagat is the niece of marathon runner William Kiplagat. She lives with her two daughters in Iten.

Personal records

Marathon 2:24:45 (Lisbon, 2016)
 Half marathon 1:07:35 (Verbania, 2017)

Career overview

Kosgei started her running career on the grass, entering the Discovery Kenya cross country competition. Her talents were recognized early on and she made her transition to the roads in 2015. She won her first marathon in a modest 2:47:59, and then stunned her competitors at the 2016 Milan City Marathon when she set a 20 minute PR and easily won the race in a "gun-to-tape performance." After the race, Kosgei told reporters that she expected to run under 2:30. Her next two marathons continued to show her promise: she won the Honolulu Marathon and was runner up in Lisbon in a personal best, 2:24:45.

Kosgei's 2017 season started with a half marathon personal best, 1:07:35, and a strong eighth place finish at the Boston Marathon (her Abbott World Marathon Majors debut). Most recently, she took first at the Bogota Half Marathon.

Personal records

Marathon 2:34:50 (St. Paul, 2013)
 Half marathon 1:12:46 (Houston, 2007)

Career overview

Lilienthal boasts a marathon PR of 2:34:50, set in 2013 after a two-year break from the sport. She is a three-time Olympic Marathon Trials qualifier with roots in the Midwest; she first made a name for herself as a seven-time champion at Iowa City High. She went on to the University of Wisconsin-Madison where she earned Big Ten honors, and she made her marathon debut in 2005 with a third place finish in Philadelphia. She impressed the following year with a 16th place finish at the 2006 Boston Marathon – she was the second American woman across the line. In 2006 and 2013, she finished one spot off the podium in fourth place at the U.S. Marathon Championships, and she has earned two third place finishes during her career at the U.S. Half Marathon championships.

Chicago marks a long-awaited return to the marathon for Lilienthal. She has not raced 42K since 2014.

Personal records

Marathon 2:33:30 (Hamburg, 2015)
Half marathon 1:09:51 (Philadelphia, 2015)

Career overview

Krifchin is an exciting runner who went into her marathon debut in 2015 completely under the radar and ran away with a 2:33:30 PR – the ninth fastest time posted by an American woman that year. She followed her debut with another big performance at the 2016 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials. In spite of high heat and humidity beating most of the field, Krifchin finished seventh, running a disciplined race with nearly identical half splits – she covered the first half in 1:16:38 and the second in 1:16:52 to come home in 2:33:34 (the 13th fastest American time in 2016). Heading into the Trials, she won the 2015 Philadelphia Rock 'n' Roll Half Marathon in 1:09:51.

Krifchin hit the national scene as a high school runner focused on mid-distance. She finished fourth at the 2006 New Balance Games in the mile, and she took her talents to Syracuse where she broke the school record in the 1500m (4:22.65) and posted a 4:48.10 mile PR. After graduating in 2010, she pushed her legs to the half marathon distance, debuting in 1:11:05. By 2012, she represented the U.S. internationally at the IAAF World Half Marathon Championships. She had an impressive race, finishing 13th overall with a time of 1:12:29. Krifchin also has a pair of third place finishes at the 2012 U.S. 15K Championships and the 2012 U.S. 10K Championships.

In February, the Atlanta Track Club announced the addition of seven athletes to its Olympic Development Team, coached by 2008 Olympian Amy Begley and Andrew Begley. Krifchin is among the athletes attempting to use this opportunity as a springboard to qualifying for the 2020 Tokyo Olympic Games.

Marathon 2:31:48 (Duluth, 2011)
Half marathon 1:11:48 (Duluth, 2014)

Career overview

McMahan made her marathon debut in Chicago in 2006 and she returns this year as a newly minted masters runner with refreshed goals. After picking up her first masters win in New York on her birthday last fall, she took home another trophy in Boston this spring. With her sights set on a third win in Chicago, McMahan hopes to become the first masters runner to win all six AbbottWMM events. The last time she lined up in Chicago in 2012, she finished seventh in 2:32:11.

McMahan has been a steady performer for the U.S. over the last decade. She finished eighth in the 2008 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials and ninth in the 2012 trials. She struggled in the heat of Los Angeles at the 2016 Olympic Trials and faltered to 34th place. Seeking redemption after the trials, she entered the New York City Marathon. She thought it would be a fitting exclamation point and exit to her running career. But McMahan surprised herself with a 12th place finish and the masters win, giving birth to a new wave of excitement. After New York, she explained, "I was kind of surprised by what I was able to do at New York and by how much it refueled my passion for marathoning. As a master, I have new goals to chase . . ."

Internationally, McMahan represented the U.S. at the 2005 and 2008 IAAF World Half Marathon Championships, and at the 2013 IAAF World Marathon Championships where she finished an impressive 18th.

Personal records

Marathon	2:26:31 (Osaka, 2014)
Half marathon	1:09:54 (Poznan, 2017)

Career overview

Nadolska set her personal best, 2:26:31, at the 2014 Osaka Marathon, and she consistently runs in the 2:26-2:30 range. She finished 14th at the 2013 IAAF World Championships 10,000m, 20th at the 2012 IAAF World Half Marathon Championships and 17th at the 2010 IAAF World Half Marathon Championships. She represented Poland at the 2012 London Olympic Games in the marathon, coming home in 35th place, and she is a two-time national champion in the 5000m.

Nadolska made her marathon debut in 2007 and rapidly improved from a 2:49 to a 2:33 in less than a year. She is a two-time winner of the Lodz Marathon (2013 and 2014), and she has earned top finishes in Osaka (second) and Frankfurt (third).

Although she hasn't raced a marathon since 2014, Nadolska has been racing prolifically. She has spent her 2017 season racing regularly on the roads in distances ranging from the 10K to the half marathon. Some highlights include a third place finish at the Lilac Bloomsday 15K, fifth at the Cherry Blossom 10 mile and first at the Poznan Half Marathon in Poland. The Chicago Marathon is her first AbbottWMM.

Personal records

Marathon	2:22:59 (Chicago, 2006)
Half marathon	1:09:45 (New York, 2010)

Career overview

Pérez made her marathon debut in Chicago 14 years ago (2003), and she returned in 2006 to set her still-standing personal best, 2:22:59. Her performance in 2006 catapulted her into the national spotlight as she became the fastest female marathon runner ever from Mexico; she still holds the national record, and she has run Mexico's all-time 6th, 7th, 8th and 12th fastest times.

She is a two-time Olympian in the marathon (2008 and 2016) and a two-time national champion in the 10,000m (2003, 2010). She finished seventh at the 2013 IAAF World Marathon Championships (she also competed in 2005 and 2007) and sixth at the 2005 IAAF World Half Marathon Championships. She finally climbed toward the top in 2011 when she picked up a silver medal in the marathon at the Pan American Games. One of Pérez's most memorable races occurred at the 2007 Boston Marathon where she proved hard to shake and she hung with the leaders until the closing miles. She placed third, and that remains her best finish in an AbbottWMM.

Pérez did not race in 2014 and 2015, but her times in 2016 and 2017 point to an athlete who is ready to be back on the global stage.

Personal

Pérez is married to Odilon Cuahutle, a professional runner (2:15:34 marathon personal best) and coach.

Personal records

Marathon	2:38:37 (Duluth, 2015)
Half marathon	1:15:43 (Duluth, 2016)

Career overview

Reed was an impressive high school athlete, qualifying for state all four years, and she became one of the most highly decorated runners at Missouri Southern. She still holds school records in four events: the indoor 5000m, the outdoor 5000m, the outdoor 10,000m and the distance medley relay. She was a multiple time All-MIAA and All-American, and she was the 2008 South Central Region Cross Country Athlete of the Year.

Reed initially focused on the half marathon distance, making her half debut in 2011 in 1:20:40. She has progressively improved each year, dropping her half marathon PR by five minutes and qualifying for the 2016 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials with a 2:38:37 PR at the 2015 Grandma's Marathon. Reed went into the trials with a goal of running 2:37, but she became the victim of high heat and humidity and edited her goal to just finishing in the top half of the race. The Chicago Marathon marks her debut in the AbbottWMM.

Marathon 2:37:55 (Los Angeles, 2017)

Career Overview

Reyes is a young athlete with an inspiring story that shows that hard work, passion and running fearlessly lead to significant improvements. She ran her first half marathon at age 16 and her energy at the end foreshadowed a future as a marathon star. She finished her first marathon at age 22, clocking a 3:08 debut and qualifying for Boston. Since her debut in 2014, she has improved every time she lines up, but her big breakthrough happened this winter in Los Angeles. In preparation for the race, she dramatically increased her mileage and had zero injury setbacks (she fits her training into a busy schedule as a Pharmacy student). She went into L.A. thinking she could break 2:45, and she ran across the finish line even faster: 2:37:55.

Reyes explained, "At the LA Marathon, I was just hoping to finish under 2:45. What I believe contributed to a good race in LA was running as a professional athlete; competing against runners from Kenya and runners who ran in the Olympics; being on the local news station during the race; meeting with Ryan Hall, Kara Goucher, and Deena Kastor the day before the race; good race weather; nearly flat course (compared to the San Francisco Marathon); training and tapering well; staying healthy and injury free the day of the race; not having to stress about school because I completed final exams two weeks before the race; and having the support of my family and friends throughout training."

Career Overview

Rojas has run four career marathons with a personal best of 2:37:05, set in New York in 2015 for an 11th place finish. She has competed in two IAAF World Half Marathon Championships, and she won the 2013 Peru National Championships in the 10,000m. In 2009 and 2013, she finished fourth and seventh, respectively, in the South American 10,000m championships. Rojas finally made her marathon debut at the New York City Marathon in 2014. She finished in the top 20 and returned in 2015 to subtract eight minutes from her PR.

She started her 2017 crusade with an eighth place finish at the Houston Marathon, a pair of podium finishes at the South American Half Marathon Championships (third) and the Guadalajara Half Marathon (third), and a win at the Santiago de Chile Half Marathon. Rojas will be competing in her second AbbottWMM.

1985 Bank of America Chicago Marathon Champion

Personal records

Marathon 2:21:21 (Chicago, 1985)
Half marathon 1:08:23 (Boston, 1983)

Career Overview

"As every runner knows, running is about more than just putting one foot in front of the other; it is about our lifestyle and who we are."

As a relatively unknown college student at Bowdoin, Joan Benoit Samuelson burst onto the scene in 1979 with an American Record win at the Boston Marathon, chopping eight minutes off the previous course record. In 1983, Samuelson returned to Boston and not only won again (2:22:43), but set her first of four career world records; her 2:22:43 remained Boston's course record for 11 years. In March of 1984, Samuelson injured her knee during a 20-mile training run and underwent arthroscopic knee surgery just 17 days before the U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials. In spite of her injury, she won the trials. Three months later, she became the first woman ever to win a gold medal in the Olympic Marathon, turning in a time of 2:24:52 – ahead of running legends Grete Waitz, Rosa Mota and Ingrid Kristiansen.

Carrying her Olympic momentum into 1985, she set another American Record en route to her Chicago Marathon victory. Her time, 2:21:21, is the fastest time an American woman has ever clocked in Chicago, and it stood as the American Record for 18 years (Deena Kastor broke it in London in 2003). Samuelson remains the third fastest American marathon runner of all-time, and her time in Chicago ranks as the fourth fastest time ever run by an American woman (only Deena Kastor and Shalane Flanagan have run faster). Outside of the marathon distance, Samuelson enjoyed success as a six-time champion of the historic Falmouth Road Race (7.1 miles).

Samuelson has qualified for seven U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials, and she made news at the 2008 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials when she ran sub 2:50 at age 50 – she set a new American 50+ record, running 2:49:09. In 2010, she recorded the fastest-ever performance by a woman over 52 in Chicago: 2:47:50.

Samuelson enters this year's Chicago Marathon with an ambitious goal: becoming the first woman ever to break three hours at age 60 (the current record is 3:01:30). She explained, "Storytelling is important to me and it's how I motivate myself. My race decisions often reflect my narrative. Once I turned 60 I knew that the Oct. 8 Chicago race would represent the next chapter in my career."

In her build up to Chicago, Samuelson set an American age group record at the Beach to Beacon 10K in August. She clocked 39:19 to win her division.

Personal

Samuelson and her husband, Scott, have two children, Abby and Anders. In 2012, Samuelson completed the Boston Marathon with her daughter, Abby. She remains committed to the sport through health and fitness clinics and motivational speaking. She has written two books, Running Tide (Knopf, 1987) and Joan Samuelson's Running for Women (Rodale Press, 1995), and she founded the popular Beach to Beacon 10K road race in Cape Elizabeth, Maine.

Personal records

Marathon 2:30:41 (Sacramento, 2013)
Half marathon 1:12:18 (Houston, 2015)

Career Overview

Becky Wade was once called "America's best young distance runner," and for good reason. In her 2013 debut at the California International Marathon, she took first place in 2:30:41. This feat made her the third fastest American woman marathoner in history under the age of 25. She finished 2013 as the fifth fastest American, and she was the only one in the top five under the age of 30. In spite of her early success, Wade struggled in her next two marathons, including a disappointing showing at the 2016 U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials. But she opened her 2017 season with a bold comeback in Houston. On a hot and humid day, she landed in the top three in 2:35:57. She maintained her momentum to finish fourth at the U.S. 20K Championships in September.

Wade was a four-time All-American at Rice University. Her versatility as a runner made her successful in both the steeplechase and the 10,000m. In 2012, she qualified for the Olympic Trials in both events, and made it to the finals in the steeplechase. In 2016, she jumped up to the marathon trials, but still qualified for the steeplechase.

Personal

Wade spent a year traveling the world on a Thomas J. Watson Fellowship program to study running in different cultures. In one interview, she said the most interesting place she visited was Ethiopia: "The most unique running place I visited during my fellowship year was in Ethiopia, where the culture of running was unlike anything I'd ever encountered. In Ethiopian style, we trained in single-file lines through dense forests and eucalyptus patches, over undulating terrain, and without watches or specific plans. The two months I spent there really refreshed my appreciation for the purity and simplicity of running, and helped me learn to be more attentive to my body." Wade documented her travels - which included nine countries, 72 host families and more than 3500 miles running - in her book, Run the World.

Personal records

Marathon 2:36:25 (Philadelphia, 2016)
Half marathon 1:14:10 (Tampa, 2017)

Career Overview

Ward was a gifted performer at Weber State University where she collected a Big Sky title in the 10,000m, 12 Academic All-Conference honors and some of the fastest times in the 5000m and 10,000m in school history. She graduated in 2014 and made a quick move to road racing. By 2015, she qualified for the U.S. Olympic Marathon Trials with a 2:38:32 tenth place finish in Houston. She did not have the race of her dreams at the trials, but she recovered well with a win at the 2016 Philadelphia Marathon and a new personal best, 2:36:25.

Ward also won the 2016 La Sportiva Mountain Cup Trail race, and she was second at the 2016 Collegiate Mountain Running Championships. She welcomed 2017 with a third place finish and a PR at the Tampa Half Marathon, 1:14:10.

Personal records

Marathon 2:25:15 (London, 2017)
Half marathon 1:09:00 (Gold Coast, AUS 2010)

Career Overview

Weightman comes to Chicago on the heels of her best career performance to date, a 2:25:15 fifth place finish in London. Her time in London makes her the third fastest Australian woman in history. She is a three-time Olympian in the marathon (2008, 2012, 2016); her best Olympic showing came in London when she finished 16th in 2:27:31. She has competed in several World Championships: the marathon (2009), half marathon (2007), 20K (2006) and cross country (2007, 2008, 2009). She won the bronze medal in the marathon at the 2010 Commonwealth Games.

Weightman made her marathon debut in 2008 in 2:32:22, tying the fastest marathon debut record by an Australian woman, and she has banked a dozen career marathons since. She won the 2010 Nagano Marathon and the 2013 Melbourne Marathon, and she finished second in Houston in 2016. She should be in the running for a top five finish on October 8.

Personal

Weightman works full time as a business consultant for IBM.

Marathon: 1:26:03 (Boston, 2011)

Career overview

Adam Bleakney is the 2002 Chicago Marathon champion and a three-time runner up, including in 2012 when he finished second to the fastest man in the world, Canada's Josh Cassidy. In 2011, Bleakney broke the American record for the all-conditions wheelchair marathon when he finished sixth in Boston in 1:26:03. Bleakney raced his first Chicago Marathon in 1999 and tied for second in a sprint finish down Columbus Drive. He has competed in the last 13 of 17 Chicago Marathons, including finishing in his fastest time ever on the streets of the windy city in 2015.

Bleakney is the head coach of the world-class University of Illinois Wheelchair Racing Team, which includes seven-time Chicago Marathon champion Tatyana McFadden and three-time champion Amanda McGrory.

Bleakney won a silver medal in the 800m at the 2004 Paralympic Games in Athens. He finished 24th in the 2012 Paralympic Marathon in London. He finished his 2016 season with a 21st place in New York and he opened his 2017 season with a 21st place finish in Boston.

Rafael Botello Jimenez

Birthdate: 02/23/79

Personal record

Marathon: 1:22:18 (Padua, 2007)

Career overview

Rafael Botello Jimenez – "Rafa" – started competing in wheelchair racing in 2003 (one year after he endured a dorsal spinal cord injury as a result of a bicycle accident). Botello Jimenez has recorded four top-ten finishes in Chicago (2009 – 4th; 2010 – 3rd; 2012 – 3rd; 2013 – 6th). He struggled in 2014, finishing an uncharacteristic 19th and well out of the hunt for first. But he returned in 2015 and 2016 to erase that disappointment, finishing 11th both years. Botello Jimenez has competed in 36 AbbottWMM events since 2005, and while he has finished inside of the top three, he has never won a major.

Botello Jimenez finished in the top 10 of the 2012 London Paralympic marathon, he is a two-time winner of the Valencia Marathon (2007, 2010) and he set his current PR in Padua (2007) – a time that makes him the third fastest European on a legal course. He holds Spanish records for the mile and 10,000m on the track and the 5K, 10K and marathon on the road. He also competes for Spain in the para-triathlon and para-cycling. This spring, he finished 5th in London at the World Para Athletics Marathon World Cup.

Christian Clemmons is an Illinois native and a relative newcomer to long distance racing. He started his athletic career as a basketball player and was encouraged by the Great Lakes Adaptive Sports Association (GLASA) in Lake Forest, IL to give track racing a try. He rounded the oval for the first time in 2014 and started racing distances from 100m to 1500m. He made his marathon debut in Chicago in 2015, finishing 37th in 2:15:16. He is currently training under Adam Bleakney at the University of Illinois, and he will be back in Chicago for his third consecutive year. He started 2017 with a positive showing in Boston, finishing 23rd in a new personal best, 1:39:02.

Alexandre Dupont

Birthdate: 09/03/85
Citizenship: Canada

Personal record

Marathon: 1:33:14 (Chicago, 2014)

Career overview

Dupont returns to Chicago for the fourth time. He has raced well in the windy city, placing in the top 12 three times, and being close to the podium twice. He competed in the 2017 World Para Athletics Marathon World Cup in London, but he dropped out of the race before the half marathon mark. Dupont is primarily known as a track racer – he won three gold medals at the 2015 Parapan American Games (400m, 800m, 1500m), and he picked up a bronze at the 2016 Rio Paralympics in the 4x400m relay. He competed in four track events at the 2012 London Paralympics, and he has been eyeing a full transition to the marathon for a while with the goal of being among the best. Outside of road racing, he owns Revolution Sports, a company that manufactures sports equipment for people with disabilities.

Personal record

Marathon: 1:18:51 (Boston, 2011)

Career overview

Kurt Fearnley is Chicago's most decorated male wheelchair athlete with five titles, including three in a row from 2007 to 2009 and then two more in 2011 and 2015. A veteran of more than 50 marathons (with over 30 wins), he has captured nine medals at the Paralympic Games, including a pair of gold medals in the 2004 and 2008 Paralympic Marathon. He took another gold at the 2011 IPC World Championships Marathon, and he won four consecutive New York City Marathons from 2006 to 2009; he finished third in 2013 and was on top of the podium again in 2014 after a sprint finish through Central Park. His 1:29:22 course record in New York still stands.

At the 2014, 2015 and 2016 Chicago Marathons, Fearnley was part of historic sprint finishes. In 2014, the top 11 professional wheelchair athletes finished within 11 seconds; in 2015, the top 11 men finished within 13 seconds; and in 2016, the top nine men were within 16 seconds of each other. Hug edged out Fearnley at the finish by one second last fall, and then repeated the feat at the New York City Marathon. Fearnley opened his 2017 season by finishing third at the World Para Athletics Marathon World Cup (behind Weir and Hug). One week earlier, he finished fourth in Boston.

At the 2007 Chicago Marathon, the warmest day in event history, he broke the course record (Heinz Frei broke it again in 2010).

Fearnley is a passionate disability advocate and devotes himself to a number of charitable initiatives.

Citizenship: Austria

Personal record

Marathon: 1:29:39 (Boston, 2017)

Career overview

Frühwirth is an exciting and versatile athlete best known for his feats in cycling and the triathlon. He made his marathon debut in Boston by finishing 19th in 1:29:39. He is a two-time Ironman finisher, and he holds the world record in both the Ironman and the 70.3 Ironman. He is the 2015 Ironman world champion, a 2014 and 2015 Paracycling World Championships bronze medalist and he won the silver medal in handcycling at the 2016 Rio Paralympics. He made headlines in 2012 when he finished the Race Across America with a teammate. Frühwirth is new to the AbbottWMM series, but he aims to finish all six events by 2020.

Frühwirth will be making his Chicago Marathon debut on October 8.

 Birthdate: 03/18/85
 Citizenship: United States
 Residence: McLean, VA
 Twitter: @jsgeorge

Personal record

Marathon: 1:21:47 (Boston, 2017)

Career overview

Josh George competed in his first Chicago Marathon in 2002 as an 18-year-old, finishing fourth among a talented field that included U of I coach Adam Bleakney. He has finished in the top five of the race 11 times, and he is a four-time Chicago Marathon champion, including back-to-back victories in 2003 and 2004, another in 2006 and a nail-biting victory in 2014 where he was chased to the line by 10 men in a near photo finish. George missed defending his 2014 title by two seconds, and he followed Hug and Fearnley to the line in 2016, losing the first spot by just two seconds.

George has performed exceptionally well on the world stage. He is a six-time World Champion, including a win at the 2015 IPC World Championships Marathon, and a four-time Paralympian with one gold medal (100m), one silver (800m) and three bronze (100m, 400m, 800m). Prior to the age of 25, he set world records in the 100m, 400m and 800m events.

He ended 2016 with a podium finish in New York (third place), and he started 2017 with a fifth place finish in Tokyo, a sixth place finish and a PR in Boston and an eighth place finish in London at the World Para Athletics Marathon World Cup.

Jun Hiromichi
 Birthdate: 12/21/73
 Citizenship: Japan

Personal record

Marathon: 1:23:23 (Beijing, 2008)

Career overview

Hiromichi started racing in a wheelchair in 1991 and he made his international debut in 1994 (he injured his spine in a 1989 motorcycle accident). He competed in the 2000, 2004 and 2008 Summer Paralympics, and he owns two silver medals in the 800m from 2000 and 2004. For a track racer, he fared extremely well in the 2008 Paralympic Marathon, coming home seventh in his personal best, 1:23:23. Hiromichi started his 2017 season with a decent showing in Tokyo, finishing 11th overall.

Between 2004 and 2010, he was presented with the Medal of the Oita Prefecture, the Hinodecho Sports Achievement Award, the Osaka Sports Achievement Award, the Osaka Prefectural Honor, the Honorary Citizens of Sakai Award and the Prime Minister's Award. He has served as a council committee member of the Japan Para Athletics Federation, and he has worked as the director of the Paralympians Association of Japan and as executive director of Sports of Heart.

Hiromichi will be making his Chicago Marathon debut on October 8.

Kota Hokinoue
Birthdate: 03/30/74
Citizenship: Japan

Personal record

Marathon: 1:21:14 (Boston, 2014)

Career overview

Kota Hokinoue began racing in 2002 (he sustained a spinal cord injury in a motorcycle accident in 2000), but he did not compete in his first Chicago Marathon until 2014; he finished fifth, and he was just four seconds away from wearing the crown. He came back in 2015 to pursue a podium finish, but he crossed the line in 8th in 1:30:57 – just 11 seconds away from a victory. The same scenario repeated itself in 2016 when Hokinoue was part of yet another remarkable sprint finish down the homestretch. He finished ninth, but he was just 16 seconds away from the title.

Hokinoue has been a regular competitor on the AbbottWMM circuit, finishing first in Berlin in 2014 and first in Tokyo in 2015. He has raced all three majors so far in 2017: Tokyo (sixth), Boston (10th) and London at the World Para Athletics Marathon World Cup (sixth, and just three seconds away from first).

He holds a bronze medal from the 2013 IPC World Championships, and he competed in both the 2008 and 2016 Paralympic Games.

Hokinoue broke the Japanese record in 2011 when he clocked 1:22:01, finishing second in Oensingen, and he lowered it again in Boston in 2014 when he was second in 1:21:14, ranking second in the world behind past Chicago Marathon champion Ernst Van Dyk.

As a track racer, Hokinoue has set Japanese records in the 5000m and 10,000m.

Personal record

Marathon: 1:18:04 (Boston, 2017)

Career overview

Marcel Hug (a.k.a. the “silver bullet”) won the Boston Marathon for the fourth time this spring, and then one week later he finished second in London at the 2017 World Para Athletics Marathon World Cup (he was one second away from first). Prior to Boston, he finished second in Tokyo. He enters the Chicago Marathon after winning the first ever AbbottWMM Series X wheelchair competition, and after capping his 2016 season with a win in New York (he also won in 2013). He went beyond the grand slam in 2016, winning in Boston, London, Rio, Berlin, Chicago and New York.

Hug has also won the Berlin Marathon (2011, 2012, 2016), Oita Marathon (2010, 2011, 2012), Schenkon Marathon (2012, 2014) and Seoul Marathon (2013, 2015).

Hug made waves in 2013 when he became the world marathon champion at the IPC World Championships; in addition to the marathon, he took home gold in four events: the 400m, 1500m, 5000m and 10,000m. At the 2011 IPC World Championships, he won gold in the 10,000m, and was second in four events. He is a two-time Paralympian with a silver medal in the marathon from the 2012 London Paralympics marathon and a gold medal from the 2016 Rio Paralympics.

Jose Jiménez
 Birthdate: 07/02/82
 Citizenship: Costa Rica

Personal record

Marathon: 1:31:36 (Duluth, 2015)

Career overview

Jose Jiménez represented Costa Rica at the 2011 IPC World Championships, claiming two top-ten finishes on the track (8th in the 1500m and 6th in the 5000m). He set his current PR in 2015 with a fourth place at Grandma's Marathon in Duluth, MN; his time, 1:31:36, ranked him 14th in the world for the year. He made his Chicago Marathon debut in 2012, finishing 16th in 1:43:54; he came back in 2015 to clock a faster time, finishing 20th in 1:42:17, and he finally dipped under 1:40 in 2016, improving to a 14th place finish in 1:38:47. He kicked off 2017 with a 29th place showing at the World Para Athletics Marathon World Cup.

Jiménez is Costa Rica's national champion in the 100m, 400m, 800m, 1500m and marathon.

Gyu Dae Kim
 Birthdate: 01/17/84
 Citizenship: South Korea
 Residence: Champaign, IL

Personal record

Marathon: 1:30:08 (Rio, 2016)

Career overview

Kim is a 2008, 2012 and 2016 Paralympian. He competed in five events in Rio at the 2016 Paralympics (5000m, 1500m, 800m, 4x400m and marathon), winning the bronze in both the marathon and the 800m. At the 2012 London Paralympic Games, he took the bronze in a sprint finish in the 1500m, and he finished seventh in the men's marathon. In 2008, he helped South Korea win a bronze medal in the 4x100m. And at the 2013 IPC World Championships, he reached the top of the podium with a gold medal in the 800m.

Kim finished 10th in his first Chicago Marathon in 2013, and then won the 2014 Grandma's Marathon in Duluth, MN. He returned to Chicago in 2014 and was part of an historic finish that saw the top 11 men finish within 11 seconds. Kim finished 6th, just six seconds behind the winner, Josh George. The same finale repeated itself in 2015: the top 11 men finished within 13 seconds of each other, and Kim was in the mix, finishing fifth in 1:30:51 (just five seconds away from the win). Last fall, Kim missed the podium by one second, landing in fourth in yet another sprint finish.

In 2004, as a surgeon with the South Korean Navy SEALs, Kim suffered spinal a cord injury after partaking in a parachute jump at about 1500 meters. His main parachute did not open, but he was able to open the backup chute. The impact from the land left his lower half paralyzed.

Citizenship: Japan

Personal record

Marathon: 1:23:24

Career overview

Kubo will be making his Chicago Marathon debut after finding his way back into track and road racing in 2014. Starting in 2008, Kubo made a name for himself as a biathlete and cross country skier. He competed in both the biathlon and cross country skiing at the 2010 and 2014 Winter Paralympic Games, winning a bronze in the biathlon in 2014. He made his AbbottWMM debut in London in 2015, finishing 26th, and then he competed in both the marathon and the 5000m at the 2016 Rio Paralympic Games. While he didn't make it out of the first round of the 5000m, he fared well in the marathon, finishing 18th.

Kubo started 2017 with a 12th place in Tokyo and a 20th place in London at the World Para Athletics Marathon World Cup.

Kubo was named the IPC Athlete of the Month in January of 2013, and he was presented with the Hokkaido Honorary Award in Japan in 2014.

Birthdate: 06/07/82

Citizenship: Great Britain

Residence: Cambridge

Twitter: @_SL74

Personal record

Marathon: 1:25:06 (Boston, 2017)

Career overview

Simon Lawson started competing in professional wheelchair racing in 2009, and he has improved his personal best almost every year since then. He experienced one of his best performances in Chicago in 2015, recording a 1:30:58, for a ninth place finish.

Internationally, Lawson has represented Great Britain in the marathon at the 2015 IPC World Championships where he finished 10th, and at the 2016 Rio Paralympic Games where he finished 14th. He had an outstanding 2016, finishing in the top ten of four AbbottWMM events, and he started 2017 with a huge PR in Boston, 1:25:06, for a 13th place finish. Lawson also finished 24th at the World Para Athletics Marathon World Cup in London.

Lawson was a promising motorcross rider until he broke his back in a 2001 accident.

Personal record

Marathon: 1:29:45 (Seoul, 2016)

Career overview

Patrick Monahan executed well in his second Chicago Marathon last fall, finishing 12th in 1:37:22. Monahan started 2017 on a positive note: he set a new PR and Irish national record at the Seoul Marathon, 1:29:10. His performance in Seoul the previous year was good enough to punch his ticket to Rio. He impressed in his first Paralympic Games with a 16th place finish in 1:40:26. In addition to his recent performances in the AbbottWMM, Monahan has won both the Dublin and Columbus, Ohio marathons. Most recently, he finished 14th at the World Para Athletics Marathon World Cup in London.

Monahan was inspired to take up wheelchair racing after watching the 2012 London Paralympic Marathon. He started using a racing chair in 2013 (six years after becoming paralyzed in a car accident), and two months later he finished third in the Dublin Marathon.

Personal record

Marathon: 1:20:28 (Boston, 2017)

Career overview

Nishida started racing the AbbottWMM in 2015, posting a 17th place in London and a sixth in Tokyo. He competed in more races in 2016, starting with Tokyo in sixth place, Boston in ninth, London in sixth and New York in 11th. He returned to Tokyo to open his 2017 season with a seventh place finish, moved to Boston to finish fifth in a personal best and then ventured to London to finish 13th at the World Para Athletics Marathon World Cup. Nishida has raced well at the world championships with a 10th place in 2013 and a 17th place in 2015.

Nishida's primary focus is on improving his marathon finishes so that he can win a medal at the 2020 Tokyo Paralympics.

Aaron Pike

Birthdate: 05/04/86
Citizenship: United States
Residence: Champaign, IL
Twitter: @Pikester86

Personal record

Marathon: 1:22:09 (Boston, 2017)

Career overview

Aaron Pike is one of many top competitors to emerge from the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign program. He made a name for himself in 2012 when he and Josh George sailed under the course record at Grandma's Marathon (Pike was the runner up). That performance paved his way to London where he participated in his first Paralympic Games. He finished 16th in the marathon, and he also qualified to compete in three track events: the 1500m, 5000m, and 4x400m relay.

Pike's 2017 season is off to a strong start – he captured two top 10 finishes this spring with a seventh place and a personal best in Boston and a seventh place at the World Para Athletic Championships in London. He has been in the chase pack for the past three years in Chicago, but he hasn't broken into the top three yet. Pike remains a consistent performer in the AbbottWMM – he has finished in the top-ten five times in Boston and eight times in Chicago. He is also a member of the U.S. Nordic Ski team.

Krige Schabort

Birthdate: 09/09/63
Citizenship: United States
Residence: Cedartown, GA

Personal record

Marathon: 1:23:44 (Boston, 2012)

Career overview

Krige Schabort won his debut Chicago Marathon in 2005 and set a new course record (which Fearnley broke in 2007). In 2007, he missed returning to the top of the podium by one second, losing to Kurt Fearnley in a sprint finish. He finished third in 2006, 2008 and 2009, and eighth in 2013 – the last time he competed in the Chicago Marathon.

Schabort won back-to-back titles at the New York City Marathon in 2002 and 2003, and he is a seven-time Honolulu Marathon champion. In 2011, he set a course record in the Ironman World Championships. He swept away the field at the 2013 Los Angeles Marathon, winning by more than seven minutes, and he finished 6th in New York. More recently, he finished seventh in New York last fall and 10th in London this spring at the World Para Athletic Marathon World Cup. In August, he won the Beach to Beacon 10K, beating 10-time winner Tony Nogueira by almost a minute. Schabort will be 54 when he lines up to race Chicago on October 8.

Now a U.S. citizen, Schabort is originally from South Africa. He represented South Africa at the 1992, 1996, 2000 and 2004 Paralympic Games. He won the bronze medal at the 1992 Paralympic Games Marathon in Barcelona. He upgraded his medal to silver at the 2000 Sydney Games.

Personal record

Marathon: 1:26:03 (Oita 2016)

Career overview

At 23, Suzuki is one of the youngest athletes in the elite field. He ranked 10th in the world in 2016 with his personal best in Oita, 1:26:03, and he nearly matched that time in Tokyo for a fifth place finish in his debut AbbottWMM race. He started his 2017 season with a return to Tokyo and a third place finish. He followed that impressive showing with his first appearance in a world championship marathon. He exceeded expectations with a 16th place finish at the World Para Athletic Marathon World Cup – he was just six seconds shy of reaching the top of the podium.

Suzuki competed in the 2015 world championships on the track, finishing 22nd in the 5000m.

Ernst Van Dyk

Birthdate: 04/14/73
 Citizenship: South Africa
 Residence: Paarl, RSA
 Twitter: @ernstvandyk

Personal record

Marathon: 1:18:04 (Boston, 2017)

Career overview

Ernst Van Dyk won the 2013 Chicago Marathon after an exciting sprint finish, and he almost became a back-to-back champion in 2014, but Josh George and Kurt Fearnley edged him at the line. He came back in 2015 seeking his second Chicago Marathon victory, but he had to settle for fourth after a mad dash to the finish. The same situation repeated itself in 2016 when Van Dyk found himself in the midst of another notable sprint finish in Chicago.

Van Dyk has won the Boston Marathon a record ten times, including six in a row from 2001 to 2006. His 2004 victory in 1:18:27 was a world best until Canada's Josh Cassidy broke it by two seconds in 2012. He started 2017 with a second place finish in Boston (his fourth runner-up finish in Boston). He has raced the London Marathon 11 times, making the podium four times but never capturing the victory. He finished fourth this spring. Van Dyk won the 2005 and 2015 New York City Marathon, and was runner up in 2013 and 2014.

Van Dyk has competed in every Paralympic Games since 1992, winning numerous medals on the track and road, including a bronze in the marathon in Beijing in 2008. Outside of running, he is an accomplished handcyclist, having won Paralympic gold medals in the handcycle road race at the 2008 and 2012 Paralympic Games.

Sho Watanabe

Birthdate: 11/23/91
 Citizenship: Japan

Personal record

Marathon: 1:28:01 (Tokyo 2017)

Career overview

Like Suzuki, Watanabe is relatively new to the AbbottWMM, but he announced his presence in a bold way: he won the 2017 Tokyo Marathon, beating AbbottWMM Series X champion Marcel Hug in a sprint finish. It was Hug's first defeat in seven races. Watanabe struggled in his next race at the World Para Athletic Marathon World Cup, finishing a disappointing 34th.

Outside of the AbbottWMM, Watanabe finished eighth at the 2013 world championships marathon, and 15th in the 5000m at the 2015 world championships. He has been competing in the sport since 2011 when he was injured in a car accident. Within two years, he was part of Japan's world championships team in the 10,000m and the marathon. He will be making his Chicago Marathon debut.

Ryota Yoshida

Birthdate: 09/28/81

Citizenship: Japan

Personal record

Marathon: 1:23:18 (Boston 2017)

Career overview

Yoshida made his international debut in 2015 at the World Championships in London. He finished 11th in 1:35:35. He returned to London in 2016, but finished well outside of the medals in 20th place. He rebounded in Berlin to end his year with a fourth place finish, just missing legend Ernst Van Dyk at the line for third. Yoshida started 2017 with a fourth place in Tokyo and a massive personal best in Boston, 1:23:18, for 11th place. One week later, he performed well at the World Para Athletic Marathon World Cup in London, coming home in 12th place.

The 2017 Chicago Marathon marks his first time racing in the United States.

Women's wheelchair biographies

Madison de Rozario

Birthdate: 11/23/93

Citizenship: Australia

Personal record

Marathon: 1:53:44 (London, 2013)

Career overview

At just 14-years-old, de Rozario was the youngest athlete to compete in the 2008 Paralympic Games, helping her team to a silver medal in the 4x100m relay while also competing individually in the 100m and 400m. She competed in four events at the 2012 Paralympic Games: 100m, 200m, 400m and 800m and she picked up two silver medals at the 2016 Paralympic Games in the 800m and 4x400m. She is a five-time world championship athlete, most recently winning the gold medal in the 5000m, a silver in the 800m and a bronze in the 1500m at the 2017 World Para Athletic Championships. She is the reigning Australian record holder over 800m and 5000m, and this fall marks her first serious run at the marathon distance. She competed in London in 2013, but her primary focus was still on the track. With her speed on the track and her attention turned to 42K, de Rozario could upset some of the more seasoned veterans in the field.

Jenna Fesemyer

Birthdate: 01/31/97
Citizenship: United States
Twitter: @JennaFesemyer

Personal record

Marathon: 1:59:52

Career overview

Fesemyer began racing in 2013 as a high school student in Ohio, and she quickly emerged as a trail-blazer in adaptive sports. She was Ohio's first female wheelchair high school track state champion, and by her senior year in 2014, four other girls and nine boys had joined her quest. In 2014, U.S. Paralympics named her the National Girls Field Athlete of the Year. After high school, she joined the prestigious University of Illinois Illini Wheelchair track and road racing team. She competed in the 2016 Paralympic Trials in the 100m, 400m and 800m, and she finished her season at the Chicago Marathon.

Katrina Gerhard

Birthdate: 12/13/96
Citizenship: United States
Residence: Champaign, IL

Personal record

Marathon: 1:40:34 (Boston, 2017)

Career overview

Gerhard built a name for herself at the 2014 National Junior Disability Championships as a 17-year-old when she won 10 track and field gold medals, and set U-20 national records in the javelin and pentathlon. She also holds the U-20 mark in the shot put. On the roads, she finished second to global sensation Tatyana McFadden at the 2014 Falmouth Road Race, and she won the 2014 B.A.A. Half Marathon. She made her marathon debut in Chicago in 2015, finishing seventh in 2:01:58. She got under two hours in Chicago in 2016, and she capped her year with a fifth place finish in New York. She has spent 2017 demolishing her previous marks. She started in Boston with a personal best, 1:40:34, and a ninth place finish, and she continued at the 2017 World Para Athletic Marathon World Cup in London with a sixth place finish. Gerhard races competitively at the University of Illinois and is coached by Adam Bleakney.

Personal record

Marathon: 1:35:44 (Padua, 2008)

Career overview

Sandra Graf is a two-time silver medalist at the IPC World Championships in the marathon (2006, 2011), and a two-time bronze medalist at the Paralympics (2008, 2012). She is a five-time Paralympian (2000, 2004, 2008, 2012, 2016).

Graf has reached the top of the podium in several international races: Padua (2008); Oita (2010); London (2008); Berlin (2006, 2009, 2012); and she has finished inside of the top-ten at the New York City Marathon eight times. Graf finished fifth at the 2014 Chicago Marathon and fourth last fall.

She has competed in distances ranging from the 400m to the 5000m on the track, and outside of professional wheelchair racing, she won gold in the 16K handcycling time trial at the 2012 London Paralympic Games. She has been racing at a competitive level for 18 years.

Marathon debut

Career overview

Kinghorn enters this year's Chicago Marathon as a 2017 double world champion in the 100m and 200m. She also won a bronze in the 400m and finished fifth in the 800m. During her season so far, she has broken the T53 200m world record and set European records over 100m, 400m and 800m. She started racing competitively in 2012 and by 2016 she was a Paralympian competing in three events (100m, 400m and 800). She finished in the top eight of all three. The Chicago Marathon is new territory for Kinghorn – she will be making her global debut over the marathon distance.

Kinghorn has received several awards since 2013: Athlete with an Impairment of the Year (Scotland); Sports Personality of the Year (2015); Inspirational Performance of the Year (2015); Scotswoman of the Year (2015); Inspirational Performance of the Year (2016); Young Citizen Wheelchair Sports Award (2016); and Title IX Role Model Award (2016).

Birthdate: 03/01/94
Citizenship: United States
Residence: Champaign, IL
Twitter: @ChleseamMcC

Personal record

Marathon: 1:37:09 (Boston, 2017)

Career overview

Chelsea McClammer made her marathon debut in Chicago in 2014 with an impressive fourth place finish. She followed her debut with a podium finish in 2015, crossing the line third in 1:50:02, and she continues to be a consistent performer on the global stage. She started 2017 with a fifth place finish in Boston and a new personal best, 1:37:09.

McClammer is mainly known for her speed on the track (she began racing at age 11). At the age of 14, she was the youngest member of the 2008 U.S. Paralympic team in Beijing. She finished eighth in the 800m. She competed in the 200m at the 2011 IPC World Championships, and she won her first global medal at the 2013 IPC World Championships when she took home bronze in the 200m. She experienced her best world championship performances this year: she won the silver in the 400m and two bronze in the 5000m and 800m (she was fourth in the 1500m).

Tatyana McFadden

Birthdate: 04/21/89
Citizenship: United States
Residence: Champaign, IL
Twitter: @TatyanaMcfadden

Personal record

Marathon: 1:35:05 (Boston, 2017)

Career overview

Tatyana McFadden, a four-time Paralympian, made history in 2013, 2014, 2015 and 2016 as the only athlete to ever win four Abbott World Marathon Majors (AWMM) in one year: London, Boston, Chicago and New York. In total, she has won 19 WMM in just nine years of elite marathon racing. She closed out her 2016 season with a win in New York and a new title: the 2016-17 Abbott World Marathon Majors Series X champion.

A ten-time U.S. Summer Paralympic track and field medalist and the only woman to win six gold medals in a single IPC World Championships, McFadden returns to capture her seventh consecutive Chicago Marathon victory and her eighth in the last nine years. Last year's victory made her the most accomplished champion in Chicago Marathon history. McFadden made her marathon debut in Chicago in 2009, outsprinting her more seasoned competitors in the closest women's wheelchair finish in Chicago Marathon history.

McFadden's 2017 season got off to a rocky start. She suffered from blood clots before the Boston Marathon and competed just a few weeks after having surgery. Although she set a new personal best, she finished off of the podium in fourth place after being undefeated since 2013. She skipped the World Para Athletic Marathon World Cup in London, but she made a valiant comeback on the track, winning four gold medals in the 200m, 400m, 800m and 1500m.

In 2014, McFadden astounded in a new sport: cross country skiing. She won a silver medal at the Sochi Paralympic Winter Games and then 32 days later, she won the Boston Marathon (and one week later, she won London).

In her wake, she has taken down course records in London (breaking her own course record in 2014), New York and Chicago.

Marathon: 1:33:13 (Boston, 2017)

Career overview

McGrory is a three-time Chicago Marathon champion with back-to-back victories in 2007 and 2008 and another in 2010. She was third in 2009, just two seconds behind her University of Illinois teammate, Tatyana McFadden, and third again last year behind McFadden and Schär. The U of I duo has won every Chicago Marathon since 2007 (McGrory made her Chicago Marathon debut in 2007 as a 21-year-old).

McGrory started her 2017 season on a positive note, picking up wins at the Tokyo Marathon, the Bank of America Shamrock Shuffle 8K and Grandma's Marathon (her eighth time winning in Duluth). She finished second in Boston in a new personal best, 1:33:13, and she finished second at the 2017 World Para Athletics Marathon World Cup in London in April. At the 2017 world championships on the track, she scored two bronze medals in the 800m and 1500m and a silver in the 5000m.

At the 2008 Paralympics in Beijing, McGrory took home a complete set of medals – gold in the 5000m, silver in the marathon and bronze in the 800m. She didn't medal in 2012, but she did in 2016: she won the silver in the 1500m and two bronze in the 5000m and the marathon.

Career overview

Arielle Rausin is still one of the youngest competitors in the professional wheelchair field, but she has raced a lot on the roads. She ran her first Chicago Marathon in 2012, and she has steadily improved each year. Her best finish so far happened in 2015 at Grandma’s Marathon. She took a significant amount of time off of her personal best, and finished behind University of Illinois alums and teammates, Tatyana McFadden, Chelsea McClammer and Susan Scaroni. Rausin clocked her best time on Chicago’s course in 2015, and she started her 2017 season with an 10th place finish in Boston and a new personal best, 1:41:26

Career overview

Scaroni, a two-time Paralympian, has come a long way since her debut marathon at the 2011 Chicago Marathon. Since then, she has raced internationally in London, and nationally in Boston, New York, Los Angeles, Twin Cities and Duluth. After finishing second to McFadden at the 2012 Chicago Marathon, she turned around and won the 2013 Los Angeles Marathon and then broke the course record at the Twin Cities Marathon. She started 2017 with podium finishes all around: she was third in Tokyo, third in Boston (in a personal best) and third at the 2017 World Para Athletic Marathon World Cup in London. She continued her success on the track – finishing with a pair of sixth place finishes at the world championships in the 800m and 5000m.

Scaroni was eighth in the 2012 Paralympic marathon and seventh at the 2016 Paralympic marathon. Given her success in 2017, Scaroni could be in the hunt for the win in Chicago.

Manuela Schär

Birthdate: 12/05/84

Citizenship: Switzerland

Residence: Kriens, SUI

Personal Record

Marathon: 1:28:17 (Boston, 2017)

Career overview

After finishing second to McFadden for the past four years, will this be the year Schär finally takes the crown in Chicago? Her 2017 season has seen her finish second in Tokyo, first in Boston (in a new personal best) and first at the 2017 World Para Athletic Marathon World Cup in London. She also competed well in the track world championships, finishing with a silver medal in the 800m, fifth in the 400m and 5000m and seventh in the 1500m. Schär's 1:38:07 in Oita is recognized as the current world record (run on a record eligible course; she and Wakako Tsuchida share the record – they finished first together in Oita).

Schär, a four-time Paralympian, made her Chicago Marathon debut in 2013 in convincing fashion, finishing second by two seconds behind defending champion Tatyana McFadden. The pattern between McFadden and Schär has continued in the AbbottWMM series: Schär finished second to McFadden in Chicago and New York in 2015, and second to McFadden in Boston, London, Chicago and New York in 2016. She was also the runner up to McFadden for the AbbottWMM Series X title. But 2017 is telling a different story so far, and Schär might finally get the victory in the windy city that has eluded her for four years.

Schär competed in the 2004, 2008, 2012 and 2016 Paralympic Games, racking up three medals – two bronze and one silver – in the 100m and 200m sprints.

Course aid & safety

Aid stations

20 aid stations are located along the course approximately one to two miles apart. Each aid station consists of the following amenities in this order:

- Medical Tent with access to a Runner Transport vehicle*
- Toilet facilities
- Gatorade Endurance Formula (lemon-lime flavor)
- Public address announcer
- Water

Runner Transport vehicles provide non-emergency transportation back to Grant Park in the event that a participant is unable to complete the race.*

Gatorade Endurance Carb Energy Chews will be available in Orange and Fruit Punch flavors at Aid Station 9 (Mile 12.5).

Gatorade Endurance Energy Gels will be at Aid Station 13 (Mile 17.8). Available flavors will be Apple Pear, Vanilla and Blackberry. One serving of Gatorade Endurance Energy Gel provides 20 grams of carbohydrate, 100mg of sodium and 80 calories.

Aid Stations 15-18 (Miles 20-23.5) will offer bananas.

Familiarize yourself with the locations and offerings at each aid station and prepare for slower traffic in these areas. The aid stations are approximately two city blocks in length; tables with Gatorade Endurance Formula and water line both sides of the street. Continue moving through the aid station if the first tables are too crowded to obtain fluids.

Event Alert System

A color-coded Event Alert System (EAS) will communicate the status of course conditions to participants leading up to and on race day. EAS levels range from Low (green) to Moderate (yellow) to High (red) to Extreme (black) based primarily on the weather, as well as other conditions.

- Email and website communication during race week will inform participants of the current EAS status and provide preparation tips based on advance weather forecasts.
- Updates will be made at the Abbott Health & Fitness Expo via public address announcements and color-coded signs.
- On race day, participants are encouraged to stay tuned to the current EAS status via public address announcements and color-coded signs/flags at the start and finish areas, and at each of the 20 aid stations along the course.
- If necessary, additional emergency information will be communicated via email and/or text message.

Medical support

Medical support is available at 21 on-course locations: all 20 aid stations and an additional medical tent in the final mile. Medical tents are indicated by tall, red blade signs with the medical icon. Each medical tent is staffed by a team of medical professionals, is equipped with emergency and first aid supplies and has access to ambulance service.

In Grant Park, the Main Medical Tent, Podiatry Tent and Ice Station are located directly beyond the finish line. An additional medical tent is located in Grant Park adjacent to the Bank of America Chicago Marathon 27th Mile Post-Race Party. For the safety of all participants, only those requiring medical assistance may access the medical facilities.

Course activations

Bank of America Cheer Zones – Miles 13 and 26

Connect with Bank of America at two locations to support all race participants. Bank of America will provide the cheer items to help you support your runners. The Mile 13 Cheer Zone will be located on Monroe and Jefferson Streets (two blocks from Union Station). The Mile 26 Cheer Zone is near the finish line between Michigan Avenue and Roosevelt Road (two blocks from CTA Red Line Roosevelt stop)

Connect to the Bank of America Chicago Marathon, its neighborhoods, the city and each other at bankofamerica.com/chicagomarathon or at #ChicagoMarathon.

U.S. Trust Cheer Zone

Come support runners at one of the race's halfway point, just after they cross the Chicago River. The energy is high as runners get ready to take on the second half of the race. The U.S. Trust Cheer Zone will be located on Jefferson Street between Monroe and Adams Streets.

Merrill Lynch Cheer Zone

Grab a bull bell and join the DJ to ring on runners at the Merrill Lynch Cheer Zone to give runners that extra bit of inspiration as they make their way through the West Loop. The Merrill Lynch Cheer Zones is located at Mile 16.5 (Halsted Street and Jackson Boulevard).

Charity Block Party

Thousands of Bank of America Chicago Marathon participants are running and fundraising on behalf of important local, national and global causes. To celebrate the impact these participants make, the Bank of America Chicago Marathon will host a Charity Block Party near Mile 14. Spectators, family and friends are welcome to cheer their charity runners at the Charity Block Party located at Adams Street and Loomis Street near Whitney Young High School.

Community leaders

In partnership with the communities that comprise the Bank of America Chicago Marathon course, the Chicago Marathon works with local leadership to activate spectators and fans from surrounding homes, businesses, schools and community groups to enthusiastically support Marathon participants. Several community leaders have stepped up to organize their sections of the course by hosting rally stations and volunteering at aid stations.

Volunteer groups

Working behind the scenes at the Abbott Health & Fitness Expo, in Grant Park and along the 26.2-mile course, more than 12,000 volunteers make the Bank of America Chicago Marathon possible.

Abbott Health & Fitness Expo

The Abbott Health & Fitness Expo features more than 200 exhibitors offering Bank of America Chicago Marathon merchandise and the latest in running footwear, apparel, nutrition and technology. Additionally, the Health & Fitness Expo is the home of participant packet pick-up for all Marathon participants. Held at Chicago's McCormick Place, the two-day Expo is free and open to the public.

Charity Program overview

Since 2002, more than 106,000 Bank of America Chicago Marathon participants have raised more than $167 million through the Charity Program. This feat is accomplished by individual participants who sign on to support an affiliated cause and commit to fundraising as a part of their Chicago Marathon journey. Every organization allows its team of runners the distinct opportunity to make more of their Marathon experience by not only accomplishing a personal goal on race day, but by contributing to a larger goal and giving back to a worthy cause.

For the Bank of America Chicago Marathon charities, their mission begins months in advance as they work to ensure runners accomplish their performance and fundraising goals. Each organization dedicates countless hours and resources to recruiting, planning and organizing their charity runner program. The experience begins with training runs for many of the runners along Chicago's lakefront path and suburban locations, and continues with team parties during the training season and pasta parties on race weekend. Charities focus on creating a memorable experience for their runners that lasts well beyond the finish line.

In a sport that focuses on individual accomplishments, the Charity Program transforms the Marathon experience into a team endeavor. It is easy to see why so many runners return to their charity teams year after year.

For a complete list of charities participating in this year's Bank of America Chicago Marathon Charity Program visit www.chicagomarathon.com/charityprogram.

Charity Program growth

The Charity Program has grown from 14 charities with 1,674 runners in 2002 to over 170 charities with more than 10,000 runners in 2017. Last year, charity runners raised $16.9 million to fund causes ranging from healthier school initiatives, medical research and animal assistance to foreign aid/humanitarian efforts and assisting the families of those in the armed forces. The runners truly take the experience of the Bank of America Chicago Marathon beyond the confines of Grant Park and change lives around the world.

Sustainability

Incorporating environmentally and socially responsible practices is an important part of the operational planning, preparation and execution of the Bank of America Chicago Marathon. Areas of focus include waste, climate, equipment & materials, community & outreach, health promotion and innovation. In 2016, the Chicago Marathon earned Evergreen Level Certification from the Council for Responsible Sport (councilforresponsiblesport.org) and in 2014 it earned silver level certification. The event was certified in 2012 and 2010, and is the largest marathon in the world to be certified.

Below are a few ways the Chicago Marathon promotes sustainability:

- Participant T-shirts, a product of Nike's Considered Design line, were made from 100 percent recycled polyester fibers.
- Organizers, with the help of more than 60 Green Team volunteers, diverted 77 percent of all waste from the race course and the Abbott Health & Fitness Expo from the landfill—more than 76 tons of materials—through reuse, recycling and compost programs.
- McCormick Place, home to the Abbott Health & Fitness Expo, is the world's largest convention center to be a certified sustainable venue under the APEX-ASTM standard.
- 34,000 pounds of remaining food and water were donated to the Greater Chicago Food Depository post-race, a 36 percent increase from the 25,000 pounds donated in 2014.
- 42,000 apples from Michigan were provided as a locally sourced treat for athletes to refuel themselves. Michigan produces more than 900 million pounds of apples annually, according to the Michigan Economic Development Corporation.
- 10,000 people from the Chicago community volunteered at the 2016 event, from over 100 local groups.
- The Bank of America Chicago Marathon gives back to the Chicago Park District by annually supporting the Chicago Park District Cross-Country Championships. By helping host three qualifying youth races, the Chicago Marathon shares the joy and reward of exercise and fitness with the next generation. Participating youth receive finisher medals, certificates and T-shirts, along with the thrill of racing.

* Official results as of September 2017. Result standings are subject to change in accordance with International Athletics Association Federations (IAAF) Anti-Doping Rules and Regulations.

As a result of a doping violation, the International Athletics Association Federations (IAAF) announced in 2016 that the 2014 result of Rita Jeptoo has been annulled. In 2015, as a result of a doping violation, the IAAF announced that the 2009-2012 results of Liliya Shobukhova have been annulled. As a result of doping violations, the IAAF also announced that the 2009 result of Lidiya Grigoryeva, the 2009 result of Abderrahim Goumri, the 2010, 2012 and 2013 results of Mariya Konovalova and the 2013 result of Aleksandra Duliba have been annulled. The official results of the Bank of America Chicago Marathon reflect this change

Year-by-Year event summary

October 9, 2016: Abel Kirui, 2:11:23; Florence Kiplagat, 2:21:32

Ideal weather conditions greeted runners as thousands of volunteers and more than 1.7 million spectators descended on the city to usher in the 39th annual Bank of America Chicago Marathon. For the second consecutive year, race organizers did not use pacesetters, resulting in championship style racing and head-to-head competition. The men's race saw a new champion crowned as 2012 Olympic marathon silver medalist Abel Kirui (KEN) held off defending champion Dickson Chumba (KEN) down the homestretch, 2:11:23 to 2:11:26, respectively. Gideon Kipketer (KEN) arrived a distant third in 2:12:20. The men's race entertained fans with fartlek-style pace surges and multiple leadership changes.

In stark contrast to the men's race, Florence Kiplagat (KEN) led a pack of women aggressively through the first 19 miles on sub 2:22 pace and then threw down a 5:10 mile to break away from the pack and defend her title. Kiplagat ran the fifth fastest time in the world and the 13th fastest time in Bank of America Chicago Marathon history, 2:21:32. Double IAAF World Championships Marathon winner Edna Kiplagat (KEN) was the runner up in 2:23:28, and Valentine Kipketer (KEN) claimed the final spot on the podium in 2:23:41.

In the women's wheelchair competition, Tatyana McFadden (Clarksville, MD.) defended her title, beating Switzerland's Manuela Schär by one second in 1:42:28, taking home her sixth straight victory and her seventh win at the Chicago Marathon, making her the most decorated champion in race history. The men's competition featured another thrilling finish with the top nine men finishing within 16 seconds of each other. Abbott World Marathon Majors Series X leader Marcel Hug (SUI) edged out Kurt Fearnley (AUS) in a photo finish in 1:32:57, earning his first career Chicago Marathon victory. 2014 champion Joshua George (Champaign, Ill.) was a close third in 1:32:59.

October 11, 2015: Dickson Chumba, 2:09:25; Florence Kiplagat, 2:23:33

The 2015 Bank of America Chicago Marathon was another year for the record books: Deena Kastor broke the American Master's record and Tatyana McFadden broke her own course record in the professional wheelchair competition.

For the first time in more than two decades, pacesetters were not at the helm of the race, and in a strategic competition up front, the men's race saw a Kenyan sweep with Dickson Chumba running away from the field in 2:09:25, Sammy Kitwara finishing as the runner-up for the second time in 2:09:50 and newcomer to the Abbott World Marathon Majors, Sammy Ndungu, sprinting down the homestretch for third in 2:10:06. American Luke Puskedra (Eugene, Ore.) kicked it in for a fifth place finish in 2:10:24, becoming just the sixth American over the last two decades to score a top five finish in Chicago.

Florence Kiplagat (KEN), the reigning half marathon world record holder, stayed patient in an aggressive race that saw a strong pack of women bolt from the start on 2:19 pace. Kiplagat finally made her move 40K into the race, breaking the tape first in 2:23:33. Yebgual Melese (ETH) held on for second in 2:23:43, and Birhane Dibaba (ETH) secured a podium finish in 2:24:24.

On the tenth anniversary of her victory in Chicago, Deena Kastor (Mammoth Lake, Calif.) finished in seventh place in 2:27:47, breaking the American Master's Record, 2:28:40, set by Colleen De Reuk at the 2005 Chicago Marathon. Kastor now owns the second (2:21:25), fourth (2:26:53) and seventh fastest times run by an American woman on the Chicago Marathon course.

In the women's wheelchair competition, Tatyana McFadden (USA) handily defended her title in a course record time, 1:41:10, taking home her fifth straight victory and her sixth win at the Bank of America Chicago Marathon since her 2009 debut. The men's competition featured another thrilling finish with the top 11 men finishing within 13 seconds of each other. Kurt Fearnley (USA) beat his competitors to the line in 1:30:46, earning his fifth career Chicago Marathon victory. In a photo finish for second place, Marcel Hug (SUI) held off 2014 champion Joshua George (Champaign, Ill.), both clocking 1:30:48.

October 12, 2014: Eliud Kipchoge, 2:04:11; Mare Dibaba, 2:25:37*

The 2014 Bank of America Chicago Marathon witnessed two new records: 40,659 runners crossed the finish line, and more than 10,000 participants raised $17.3 million for charity.

The men's race opened with a world record chase as a pack of twelve stormed through the first mile in 4:34. The pace simmered as the wind picked up, but the group remained intact through the half. Two pacers led the charge with a 1:02:11 split. In the later stages of the race, pre-race favorites Eliud Kipchoge and Kenenisa Bekele followed the leaders in what grew into a tactical race. Kipchoge, Sammy Kitwara and Dickson Chumba stayed together until Kipchoge made his final move at mile 25. With his victory clearly sealed, Kipchoge strode down Columbus Drive with a smile, stealing the show in 2:04:11. Kitwara and Chumba dueled for second, with Kitwara out-striding Chumba down the home-stretch, 2:04:28 to 2:04:32.

American Amy Hastings led the women's race from the gun, hitting the 5K in 17:12 and the 10K in 34:22 with defending champion Rita Jeptoo a few steps behind. Things shifted over the next 5K with Florence Kiplagat and Jeptoo taking over the lead. The pace remained relatively pedestrian until defending champion Rita Jeptoo took the reins and dropped a 16:37 5K between 35K and 40K. Jeptoo easily defended her title, breaking the tape in 2:24:35. Mare Dibaba held on for second in 2:25:37, and half-marathon world record holder, Kiplagat, secured a podium finish in 2:25:57.

The men's wheelchair competition featured an historic finish with the top 11 men finishing within 11 seconds of each other. Josh George edged Kurt Fearnley at the line by one second, 1:32:12 to 1:32:13. In the women's race, Tatyana McFadden handily defended her title, taking home her fourth straight victory, and her fifth in the last six years. In 2013, McFadden became the first male or female athlete to win four World Marathon Majors in one year (she won Boston, London, Chicago and New York).

As a result of a doping violation, the International Athletics Association Federations (IAAF) announced in 2016 that the 2014 result of Rita Jeptoo has been annulled. The official results of the Bank of America Chicago Marathon reflect this change.*

October 13, 2013: Dennis Kimetto, 2:03:45; Rita Jeptoo, 2:19:57

The 2013 Bank of America Chicago Marathon concluded with course records, more than 39,000 finishers, more than $15 million in charitable fundraising and a record $253 million economic impact. Kenyan athletes dominated the men's and women's races with historic performances, leading the way for the event record 39,122 runners who crossed the sun-splashed finish line in Grant Park under ideal weather conditions. Kenya's Dennis Kimetto smashed the men's course record with a 2:03:45 performance, taking 53 seconds off the previous mark set in 2012. The men's race was a world record chase from the start with a 29:20 opening 10K. The pack was whittled down to four when Kimetto and fellow Kenyans Emmanuel Mutai, Sammy Kitwara and Micah Kogo split 14:33 from 30K to 35K. Heading up the Roosevelt Road overpass, it was still a two-way battle between Kimetto and Mutai, with Kimetto grinding away for a seven-second advantage over Mutai at the finish line. Both athletes registered personal best performances, becoming the fourth and fifth fastest marathon performers of all-time. It was also the first time in history that two athletes broke 2:04 in the same race (on a record-eligible course). Michigan native Dathan Ritzenhein was the first American finisher, placing fifth in 2:09:45.

In the women's competition, Kenya's Rita Jeptoo cracked the 2:20 barrier with a winning time of 2:19:57, the fastest women's marathon time in the world in 2013. The lead pack of eight women traveled through the half in a relatively relaxed 1:11:15, but things started to heat up by 25K, when Kenyans Rita Jeptoo and Jemima Sumgong began to separate themselves from the field, leaving defending champion Atsede Baysa of Ethiopia in their wake. Jeptoo's 15:57 split from 35K to 40K sealed her victory and put her in position to break the 2:20 barrier for the first time in her career. Her 2:19:57 ranks as the fifth fastest performance in Chicago Marathon history and she became the first Kenyan woman to break the finish tape on Columbus Drive since Catherine Ndereba in 2001. Clara Santucci, of Dilliner, Pa., was the top American, finishing ninth in 2:31:39.

In the elite wheelchair competition, Tatyana McFadden of the United States won her third straight Chicago Marathon in a course record time of 1:42:35, taking down the previous mark set in 1992. South Africa's Ernst Van Dyk won a sprint finish in the men's wheelchair race to claim his first Chicago title.

October 7, 2012: Tsegaye Kebede, 2:04:38; Atsede Baysa, 2:22:03*

The 35th anniversary Bank of America Chicago Marathon proved to be one for the record books. It started with registration selling out in a record six days, and ended with an all-time high 37,475 runners crossing the finish line in Grant Park. The event also established new benchmarks in charitable fundraising ($15.3 million) and economic impact ($243 million).

After minor improvements on the course record two out of the last three years, Ethiopia's Tsegaye Kebede took advantage of cool weather (the day's high reached 51 degrees) and a stacked elite field to slash 59 seconds from the course mark, becoming the first to break 2:05 in Chicago with his 2:04:38 performance. He led two others under the previous record; Feyisa Lilesa was second in 2:04:52 and Tilahun Regassa third in 2:05:27, making it an Ethiopian sweep of the podium. Kebede also became Chicago's first male champion from Ethiopia. The top American was Oregon's Dathan Ritzenhein in ninth. His 2:07:47 was a personal best by more than two minutes and made him the third fastest American marathoner of all-time.

Ethiopia's Atsede Baysa clinched the victory after a sprint finish with Kenya's Rita Jeptoo. In the end, Baysa broke the tape a stride ahead, with both athletes recording personal bests, 2:22:03 and 2:22:04, respectively. The dramatic finish tied for the narrowest margin of victory in the history of the women's competition. Kenya's Lucy Kabuu was third (2:22:41). Running her debut marathon, Renee Baillie of the U.S. was eighth in 2:27:17, registering the fifth fastest U.S. debut of all-time.

In the wheelchair division, Tatyana McFadden of the U.S. won her second consecutive title and third in the last four years. In the men's race, Canadian Paralympian Josh Cassidy moved up from fourth the previous year to the top spot on the podium.

As a result of a doping violation, the International Athletics Association Federations (IAAF) announced in 2015 that the 2009-2012 results of Liliya Shobukhova have been annulled. The official results of the Bank of America Chicago Marathon reflect this change.*

October 9, 2011: Moses Mosop, 2:05:37; Ejegayehu Dibaba, 2:22:09*

The Bank of America Chicago Marathon reached its registration capacity of 45,000 in record time (31 days), which led to the second-largest field in event history (35,755) crossing the finish line in Grant

Park. Runners battled another unseasonably warm October day with temperatures peaking at 80 degrees, albeit with low humidity and light winds.

The elite athletes were undaunted by the conditions, as Kenya's Moses Mosop surged to a new men's course record of 2:05:37, breaking Sammy Wanjiru's two-year-old mark. Running just his second marathon, Mosop showed great poise as he withstood a dramatic surge by countryman Wesley Korir between 25 and 30K, before answering with a surge of his own that sprung him to victory. Korir hung on for second in 2:06:15, and Bernard Kipyego third place finish in 2:06:29 made it a Kenyan sweep. America's Ryan Hall placed fifth in 2:08:04, becoming the second fastest American in Chicago history behind a pair of Khalid Khannouchi performances.

Liliya Shobukhova of Russia became the first runner to win three straight Chicago titles, and did so with the second fastest time in event history (2:18:20). Shobukhova had company in Ethiopia's Ejegayehu Dibaba (running her debut marathon) and Japan's Kayoko Fukushi for the first half, before powering away to a nearly four-minute margin of victory. Dibaba's runner-up time of 2:22:09 was the world's second-fastest debut, while Fukushi took third in 2:24:38.

Australia's Kurt Fearnley won a tight wheelchair race with just six seconds separating the top four finishers. His time of 1:29:18 was five seconds faster than the ageless Heinz Frei of Switzerland, who edged Joshua George of the U.S. for second. In the women's race, Tatyana McFadden boldly pulled away after 10 miles and the gamble paid off, as she was dominant in a nearly two-minute victory over Christine Dawes of Australia. McFadden's time of 1:45:03 was the second-fastest in event history.

With 10,000 charity runners representing more than 160 nonprofit organizations, the Chicago Marathon Charity Program netted an event record $13.4 million in fundraising, while the event's overall impact on the city also grew to $219 million.

As a result of a doping violation, the International Athletics Association Federations (IAAF) announced in 2015 that the 2009-2012 results of Liliya Shobukhova have been annulled. The official results of the Bank of America Chicago Marathon reflect this change.*

October 10, 2010: Sammy Wanjiru, 2:06:24; Astede Baysa, 2:23:40*

A record number of race finishers (36,088) contributed to a major Bank of America Chicago Marathon milestone—more than a half million finishers since the event's founding in 1977.

Leading the way for the record field of participants were a pair of repeat champions as both Sammy Wanjiru of Kenya and Liliya Shobukhova of Russia defended their titles. In a dazzling rematch of the 2008 Olympic gold and bronze medalists, Wanjiru and Ethiopia's Tsegaye Kebede pushed each other to the limit, with Wanjiru weathering a series of attacks in the final miles before finally prevailing on the incline up Roosevelt Road. Several of the running industry's top commentators remarked that the battle between the two great champions was the finest they had ever witnessed.

Shobukhova's victory, on the other hand, was a runaway by more than three minutes over Ethiopia's Astede Baysa, who held a half-minute lead at 30K. But the patient and measured Russian proved too much in the race's final 12K, as she posted a Russian national record of 2:20:25 for the win. Desiree Davila became the fourth fastest American with her fourth place finish in 2:26:20, ranking behind only Deena Kastor, Joan Benoit Samuelson and Kara Goucher on the all-time list.

In the men's wheelchair division, a new course record was set by 52-year-old Heinz Frei of Switzerland who blitzed the course in 1:26:56. In the women's wheelchair division, Amanda McGrory of downstate Savoy, IL returned to the winner's circle with a two-second victory over Japan's Wakako Tsuchida.

The Chicago Marathon continued its growth in charitable and economic impact with a record 10,000 charity runners and $12 million raised for local, national and global causes. With all the fanfare surrounding "Marathon Weekend" in Chicago, the city benefitted from $170 million in economic impact.

As a result of a doping violation, the International Athletics Association Federations (IAAF) announced in 2015 that the 2009-2012 results of Liliya Shobukhova have been annulled. The official results of the Bank of America Chicago Marathon reflect this change.*

October 11, 2009: Sammy Wanjiru, 2:05:41; Irina Mikitenko, 2:26:31*

The 2009 race set a number of new benchmarks, among them a record number of finishers (33,703), a record number of charity runners (8,500) and dollars raised ($10-plus million), a greater economic impact ($150 million), a record number of spectators (1.7 million), and a new men's course record (2:05:41).

In a welcome departure from the past two years, race day temperatures started in the low 30s, and the stage was set for a world record attempt by Olympic Marathon gold medalist Sammy Wanjiru of Kenya. With the help of pacemakers, 22-year-old Wanjiru challenged Haile Gebrselassie's 2:03:59 mark with a blistering first half run in 1:02:01. Fellow Kenyans Vincent Kipruto and Charles Munyeki went along for the ride, but the pace slowed during the second half and the world record was no longer in sight. Wanjiru still managed to carve a second off Khalid Khannouchi's course record and take home an additional $100,000 for his efforts. Morocco's Abderrahim Goumri ran a tactical race for second in 2:06:04, while Kipruto held on for third in 2:06:08.

In the women's race, Russia's Liliya Shobukhova won her first major marathon in only her second attempt at the distance. After a tactical first half, Ethiopia's Teyba Erkesso burst to the lead, trimming down the lead back to the main contenders. Shobukhova displayed unparalleled speed over the final two miles (run at sub five-minute pace), finishing in 2:25:56, with Germany's Irina Mikitenko second in 2:26:31 and 2008 Chicago champion Lidiya Grigoryeva of Russia third in 2:26:47.

Australia's Kurt Fearnley won the men's wheelchair race for the third straight year (1:29:09), and the women's race produced one of the most thrilling finishes in race history, with the top five women all finishing within three seconds. First-time marathoner Tatyana McFadden got the win in 1:50:47.

In the debut of the Nike Northside/Southside Challenge, a high school invitational held on the final 2.6 miles of the Marathon course, Lincoln Way Central runner Kyle Counter beat a field of 71 competitors to finish 52 seconds ahead of second place in 13:35. The girl's champion from Luther North, Stephanie Simpson, won in 16:01, 19 seconds ahead of second place. Fifty-seven high school girls competed in the race.

October 12, 2008: Evans Cheruiyot, 2:06:25; Lidiya Grigoryeva, 2:27:17

With Bank of America at the helm as the new title sponsor, and Nike as the new footwear and apparel sponsor, the 2008 race attracted 45,000 participants and closed registration in less than three months.

With another year of hot temperatures predicted on race day, almost 33,000 runners started and 31,344 finished. 2008 witnessed several new changes, including a separate start for the men's and women's elite field (starting five minutes before the Open field), an increase in Aid Stations from 15 to 20, and the first-ever handcycle division as the event welcomed the Achilles Freedom Team of Wounded Veterans.

With a star-studded field, the men's elite race went out in a blistering pace, at one point threatening to take down Khalid Khannouchi's course record. But the early pace wilted most of the field by 25K, leaving Kenyans Evans Cheruiyot and David Mandago to battle it out in a two-man race. After another six miles spent running shoulder to shoulder, Cheruiyot, in just his second marathon, pulled away for the victory in 2:06:25, the eighth fastest time in event history.

The women's race went out much more conservatively, with the lead pack moving at a pedestrian pace nearly 15 minutes off the course record. Shortly after the halfway point, Russians Lidiya Grigoryeva and Alevtina Biktimirova broke away from the pack. They matched each other's strides until mile 21, when Grigoryeva emerged as the clear victor (2:27:17). The wheelchair races witnessed Australian Kurt Fearnley and American Amanda McGrory repeat as champions.

October 7, 2007: Patrick Ivuti, 2:11:11; Berhane Adere, 2:33:49

The 30th anniversary race was historic in many regards. Both the men's victory by Kenya's Patrick Ivuti and women's repeat championship by Ethiopia's Berhane Adere undoubtedly rank among the most exciting finishes in event history. After a neck-and-neck sprint down Columbus Drive between Ivuti and Moroccan Jaouad Gharib, Ivuti made a final surge, pushing his chest forward to break the tape only hundredths of a second before his opponent. Moments later, Adere surprised Romanian Adriana Pirtea in the final stretch by strategically positioning herself out of Pirtea's peripheral vision and sprinting wide of the finish tape to steal the title. Thinking she was in the final stretch of certain victory, Pirtea was in the midst of pumping her arms to the crowd when she spotted Adere much too late to match her stride. In the wheelchair race, Australia's Kurt Fearnley set a new course record with his speedy 1:28:06, just one second ahead of 2005 champion Krige Schabot, and Amanda McGrory took the women's title.

But the real story of the day was the historic heat. Temperatures soared into the high 80s and combined with high humidity, which forced organizers to halt the race for the first time in its history. Approximately three and a half hours after the official start, runners were rerouted to Grant Park and instructed to stop running as the heat was too intense to ensure their safety. As a result, while the race welcomed its largest field to the start line (36,867), only 25,534 were able to officially finish the race.

On October 1, only six days before the race, Bank of America completed its acquisition of LaSalle Bank and thereby its future involvement with the historic Marathon. The 30th anniversary closed a storied chapter in the race's history, ending its 14-year run as The LaSalle Bank Chicago Marathon, a time during which it experienced tremendous growth in many areas including popularity among runners, civic and community support, and international recognition.

October 22, 2006: Robert Kipkoech Cheruiyot, 2:07:35; Berhane Adere, 2:20:42

Kenya's Robert Kipkoech Cheruiyot outsprinted countryman Daniel Njenga to win an exciting race which presented weather challenges of low temperatures, gusty winds and chilling rain. The race saw Cheruiyot, Njenga, fellow Kenyans Jimmy Muindi and Robert Cheboror, and American Abdi Abdirahman separate themselves from the pack near mile 19. With a mile to go, it was just Cheruiyot and Njenga racing for the title. After setting his eyes on the prize following a 2004 runner-up finish and 2005 third-place finish, Njenga challenged Cheruiyot in the final sprint on Columbus Drive but finished in second place once again. On his approach to the finish line, Cheruiyot slipped and fell just before breaking the tape. On official review, the Kenyan's torso had crossed the plane securing his second consecutive win in a World Marathon Major race.

After leading the women's race at a blazing world record pace in the first half, returning runner-up Constantina Tomescu-Dita of Romania faltered in the second half. Ethiopia's Berhane Adere and Russia's Galina Bogomolova closed the gap by Mile 22. Adere's long strides against Bogomolova's quicker steps proved stronger as she edged ahead and took the win. Both Adere and Bogomolova set new national records for Ethiopia and Russia, respectively, as did third and fourth place finishers Benita Johnson of Australia and Madia Perez of Mexico.

October 9, 2005: Felix Limo, 2:07:02; Deena Kastor, 2:21:25

The 2005 Chicago Marathon was a world-class racing event as young champion Felix Limo defeated a deep men's field, and U.S. record holder Deena Kastor claimed victory in a thrilling race against returning 2004 champion Constantina Tomescu-Dita.

It was a tactical battle from the start as the men's field settled in for a cautious 15:35 split in the first 5K. The lead pack was spread 11 athletes-wide across Ashland Avenue about 7.5 miles from the finish. Defending champion Evans Rutto surged ahead at mile 20, but painful blisters dashed his chances to earn a third consecutive victory. Limo accelerated at 40K to take the lead and sprinted to an impressive victory in 2:07:02. Four more Kenyans—Ben Maiyo, Daniel Njenga, Evans Rutto and Patrick Ivuti—all finished within 44 seconds of Limo to set a Chicago record for the fastest top five finishers.

In the women's race, Kastor snatched the lead from Tomescu-Dita shortly after the first 5K and led the defending champion at sub-2:20 pace through the remaining 23 miles. Tomescu-Dita kept a short leash on Kastor through 25K before the American shifted gears and pushed to a 40-second lead with seven miles remaining. But Tomescu-Dita steadily edged her way back into the race before ultimately running out of real estate, as Kastor hung tough for a five second victory over the Romanian record-holder. The win was Kastor's first in a big-city marathon, and the third fastest time ever run by an American. Tomescu-Dita improved her personal best by one minute and 20 seconds, and reset her national record by the same margin.

October 10, 2004: Evans Rutto, 2:06:16; Constantina Tomescu-Dita, 2:23:45

Awash in bright sunshine, Evans Rutto of Kenya and Constantina Tomescu-Dita of Romania charged to victory in the Chicago Marathon's 27th running. Their world-class runs made the city proud on a day when 33,125 participants from 121 countries crossed the finish line on Columbus Drive.

Rutto, who had not come just to defend his 2003 title but to break the world record, got the victory in a stellar 2:06:16, but was left to wonder what could have been if the wind had not kicked up in the final miles. While he had set his sights on Paul Tergat's time of 2:04:55 set in Berlin the previous fall, the wind was the wild card on a day he had been dealt an otherwise perfect hand. Still, Rutto notched the fourth-fastest winning time in Chicago history, and the second fastest marathon in 2004. The victory kept the 26-year-old undefeated over the marathon distance.

Tomescu-Dita deployed her usual tactic of going out hard and hanging on, which had not yet resulted in victory at a major marathon. But on this day, the Romanian ruled the road. Looking back five times from the corner of Michigan Avenue and Roosevelt Road to the finish on Columbus Drive, she was overcome with emotion as she realized she would win her first major marathon title in a time of 2:23:45, just 10 seconds off her personal best.

October 12, 2003: Evans Rutto, 2:05:50; Svetlana Zakharova, 2:23:07

The 2003 Chicago Marathon was up for grabs with four-time champion Khalid Khannouchi out of the field due to injury. Kenyan Evans Rutto picked a good year to take on his first 26.2-miler in Chicago. In a seemingly effortless performance, Rutto not only took home the victory, but he set the debut marathon record in 2:05:50. Rutto's time marked the sixth fastest marathon ever run, only eight seconds behind Khalid Khannouchi's course record. The women's victory went to veteran runner Svetlana Zakharova of Russia. Zakharova trailed behind Constantina Tomescu-Dita until mile 25, where she surged ahead to win in 2:23:07.

October 13, 2002: Khalid Khannouchi, 2:05:56; Paula Radcliffe, 2:17:18

The 25th anniversary of the Chicago Marathon was simply unforgettable—a beautiful day with a record number of finishers, nearly a million spectators, a new women's world record and the crowning of Chicago's first four-time male winner.

Great Britain's Paula Radcliffe capped off her phenomenal year by shattering the world record with a stunning 2:17:18 performance. Against a topnotch field, including defending champion and former world record holder Catherine Ndereba of Kenya, Radcliffe took control of the race for good after the halfway mark when she clocked mile splits of 5:08, 5:11 and 5:06 from miles 17 through 19. She ran alone and stayed strong during the final stretch up Lake Shore Drive to improve the world record by an amazing 89 seconds, which Ndereba set a year earlier.

After a one-year absence, Khalid Khannouchi returned to win his fourth Chicago title. Competing in the most impressive elite field in the event's 25-year history, Khannouchi went head-to-head with Paul Tergat, defending champion Ben Kimondiu, and two-time London champion Abdelkader El Mouaziz. But it was Toshinari Takaoka who would provide Khannouchi with his biggest challenge as the Japanese 10,000-meter champion broke away from the pack at mile 19 to take a 21-second lead at mile 23. In response, Khannouchi kicked it into higher gear, catching Takaoka by mile 25 near McCormick Place. After taking the lead, Khannouchi kept his furious pace over the last mile and a half to win in 2:05:56, becoming the first marathoner to record three sub-2:06 performances.

October 7, 2001: Ben Kimondiu, 2:08:52; Catherine Ndereba, 2:18:47

The 2001 Chicago Marathon was another historic race—a record number of runners, nearly a million spectators, a pacer surprising all by winning and a new women's world record. In 2001, registration reached a record 37,500 participants.

Catherine Ndereba ran the race of her life, producing a new women's world record with a stunning time of 2:18:47. After a slow start and an early challenge by friend and fellow Kenyan, Lornah Kiplagat, she ran alone most of the second half. Ndereba put the record well within her sights when she ran miles 23 and 24 in 5:12 and 5:09, respectively. Her performance, the first ever sub-2:19 run by a woman, lowered the mark by 59 seconds, set only a week earlier in Berlin.

In one of the most stunning upsets in Chicago Marathon history, Kenya's Ben Kimondiu—a pacesetter hired to push a fast pace for the first half—decided to stay in the race and won in impressive fashion, out-kicking heavily favored Paul Tergat of Kenya in 2:08:52. It was the first and only time in Chicago's history that a pacer led from start to finish. Rod DeHaven was the fastest American, placing sixth with a personal best 2:11:40.

October 22, 2000: Khalid Khannouchi, 2:07:01; Catherine Ndereba, 2:21:33

Khalid Khannouchi, in another magnificence display of marathon running, won his third Chicago

Marathon in 2:07:01. Khannouchi set the American record after being disappointed at not being able to represent the U.S. in the Sydney Olympics earlier in the year.

In nearly ideal conditions, Khannouchi beat a strong field including Moses Tanui and three other Kenyans: Fred Kiprop, Josephat Kiprono and Peter Githuka. Kenyans finished in the next five places, Kiprono taking runner-up honors 28 seconds behind Khannouchi. Then it was Tanui. Githuka, Kiprop and William Kiplagat. It was also a good day for the American men as eight placed in the top 20, with notable performances by Eric Mack (2:12:42 in his debut) and Josh Cox (2:13:55).

Catherine Ndereba joined Ingrid Kristiansen (1986) as the only women to win Boston and Chicago in the same year. Ndereba's winning time (2:21:33) was the fastest run in 2000. Ndereba shadowed Kenyan compatriot Lornah Kiplagat after closing down an early gap of 15 seconds, finally taking the lead in the 23rd mile. Kiplagat hung on for a personal best 2:22:36. Americans Libbie Hickman, Christine Junkermann and Kristy Johnston ran together for much of the race before Hickman prevailed as the first American in 2:32:09.

A record 27,956 finishers made this race the fourth-largest marathon in history.

October 24, 1999: Khalid Khannouchi, 2:05:42; Joyce Chepchumba, 2:25:59

Hollywood couldn't have scripted it better: a world record for the men, a photo finish for the women and a monster field. Chicago had it all on this chilly (mid 30s at the start) yet sunny October morning. Kenya's Moses Tanui had a 33-second lead on the pack at Mile 21 when Khalid Khannouchi of Morocco took over the second position. From that point on, it was a two-man race with Khannouchi effectively gaining on the leader. At 40K, as Tanui grabbed his bottle from the elite fluid table, Khannouchi flew by. From that point on, he was chasing only the record book. The men's leaders had already been on world record pace most of the race, but Khannouchi switched into another gear, finishing in an incredible 2:05:42, breaking Ronaldo da Costa's world record by 23 seconds, and becoming the first man to run under 2:06. Tanui finished in 2:06:16, still good for the third fastest marathon ever run. Khannouchi collected $65,000 for the win, a $100,000 world record bonus and a new Volkswagen Beetle. American David Morris, an Alaskan native who had been training and racing in Japan, put forth an impressive run of 2:09:32. He finished fourth behind defending champ Ondoro Osoro of Kenya (2:08:00).

Defending champion Joyce Chepchumba of Kenya headlined the women's race. Stunned when she tripped near mile 10 (skinning her left knee, hip and both elbows), she regained her composure and slowly reeled the lead pack back in. In the last several miles the race boiled down to her and fellow Kenyan Margaret Okayo. They arrived at the final stretch on Columbus Drive side by side, with Chepchumba's track speed making the difference as she won by less than one step (2:25:59 to 2:26:00), earning $80,000 plus a $15,000 time bonus. In all, $715,200 of prize money was awarded—the largest payout in event history.

In all, 29,256 runners registered, with 25,145 starters and 24,654 finishers. Participants representing all 50 states, plus 2,241 international runners from a record 80 countries, were cheered on by an estimated 820,000 spectators.

October 11, 1998: Ondoro Osoro, 2:06:54; Joyce Chepchumba, 2:23:57

Records were the order of the day once again at the 21st Chicago Marathon with new high marks set. Records were the order of the day once again at the 21st Chicago Marathon with new high marks set for runners (20,063 registrants) and spectators (700,000) under beautiful weather conditions (50s and calm). For only the first time in marathon history, four men with personal bests under 2:08:00 were at the start line: defending champ Khalid Khannouchi of Morocco, Kenyans Moses Tanui and Elijah Lagat, and South Africa's Gert Thys. Experience proved fruitless as a marathon rookie stunned the field.

Newcomer Ondoro Osoro of Kenya emerged victorious from the pack, running one of the fastest marathons in history. Khannouchi had a comfortable lead after a surge at mile 21, but ligament damage in his left foot (suffered just two weeks earlier), compounded by a cramping calf, spelled his doom as Osoro surged past him with less than a mile to go. Khannouchi held on for second (2:07:19), with Thys (2:07:45) and Homewood, IL-based Kenyan Joseph Kahugu (2:07:59) close behind. Osoro set course, world debut, North American and Kenyan national records with the then third-fastest performance of all-time. He earned $105,000 ($55,000 for first and a $50,000 time bonus).

In the women's race, South Africans Colleen De Reuck and Elana Meyer pushed the pace early with Joan Benoit Samuelson's course record of 2:21:21 in sight. The quick pace proved too much, however, as patient Kenyan Joyce Chepchumba stormed past Meyer at mile 19, then De Reuck at mile 22 to win in an impressive 2:23:57, the year's fourth fastest women's time and 15th fastest ever. Chepchumba pocketed $85,000 ($55,000 for the win and a $30,000 time bonus). Defending champ Marian Sutton of Great Britain never found her groove, finishing 10th in 2:35:41.

Race organizers debuted the ChampionChip timing system to ensure exact timing for every runner at the start, half marathon and finish. The 17,731 starters (now an exact count thanks to the Chip) and 17,204 finishers (a 97 percent completion rate), including 40 wheelchair finishers, were all new Chicago records.

October 19, 1997: Khalid Khannouchi, 2:07:10; Marian Sutton, 2:29:03

The 20th anniversary LaSalle Bank Chicago Marathon was truly a record-breaking event. Perfect weather conditions and an unprecedented 650,000 spectators welcomed a record 16,372 registrants, 14,322 of whom finished the race. In addition, the 1997 race showed a new diversity, with all 50 states and 47 countries represented. The event awarded $300,000 in prize money and an additional $197,000 in time bonuses.

Khalid Khannouchi, a Moroccan based in Brooklyn, NY, arrived in Chicago for his marathon debut. Not only did his 2:07:10 give him the victory, but he also set course, debut and North American records while running the fourth-fastest marathon time ever. Khannouchi took home the $50,000 first prize, plus an additional $50,000 bonus for his sub-2:07:30 performance. The American men fared well as Jerry Lawson of Jacksonville, FL, placed seventh in 2:09:35, just outside of the American record. Also, Todd Williams of Knoxville, TN, placed 10th in 2:11:17, the second best American debut time ever. In all, five men cracked 2:09 and eight finished under 2:10.

Great Britain's Marian Sutton won back-to-back Chicago titles. After battling a messy nosebleed beginning at mile 20, Sutton persevered with a personal best 2:29:03. She received $50,000 plus a $4,000 bonus for her sub-2:30. In the wheelchair competition, Saul Mendoza of Snellville, GA, and Candace Cable of Truckee, CA, won with times of 1:37:42 and 1:57:32, respectively. This year's event also took a big step in expanding its international field, with 1,074 foreign athletes competing, a 202 percent increase over 1996.

October 20, 1996: Paul Evans, 2:08:52; Marian Sutton, 2:30:41

Almost 11,000 runners enjoyed ideal weather conditions for the 19th running of the Chicago Marathon. With a 4:54 minute per mile pace, Englishman Paul Evans won the men's competition in 2:08:52, the eighth fastest time in the world for 1996. Sutton, also of Great Britain, won the women's race in 2:30:41 after trailing American Kristy Johnston for the first 25 miles. Evans and Sutton were both awarded $40,000 for their victories. Johnston (2:31:06) and fellow American Jerry Lawson (2:10:04) both finished second. Jacob Heilveil won the men's wheelchair competition in 1:39:57 while Ann Walters won the women's race for the sixth year in a row in 1:52:13.

After struggling to find solid financial footing throughout the early 1990s, a long-term agreement with the LaSalle Bank ensured financial backing and stability for the race. With such corporate support, the Chicago Marathon finally had the foundation to be a world-class event for years to come. Furthermore, the Marathon and the Chicago Area Runners Association (CARA), formed in 1978 partly as a protest movement, had long since settled their differences. By 1996, CARA was running its highly successful Chicago Marathon training program, with nearly 700 participants at four different locations throughout the Chicago area.

October 15, 1995: Eamonn Martin, 2:11:18; Ritva Lemettinen, 2:28:27

A brisk morning and gusty winds greeted the 10,802 participants in the 18th running of the Chicago Marathon. The winds quickly died down, but the men's competition remained a strategic one. Running side by side for much of the race, Eamonn Martin of Great Britain bolted past Carlos Bautista of Mexico in the last 200 meters to claim victory by just three seconds. The women's race was not nearly as tight. 1993 women's winner Ritva Lemettinen of Finland returned to Chicago and took the lead in the first two miles of the race. With only 35 men finishing before her, Lemettinen claimed her second Chicago title in 2:28:27, beating her personal best by 51 seconds. Martin and Lemettinen pocketed $35,000 of the $250,000 total purse for their victories.

Other finishers included 75-year-old Warren Utes of Park Forest, IL, who set his seventh national age group record with his time of 3:18:07. In the wheelchair competition, James Briggs of Champaign, IL, beat Scot Hollonbeck, also of Champaign, by one second, claiming victory in 1:37:12. Ann Walters, another Champaign resident, kept her streak alive in the women's competition with a victory in 1:57:27.

October 30, 1994: Luiz Antonio Dos Santos, 2:11:16; Kristy Johnston, 2:31:34

A new title sponsor and the accompanying financial boost from LaSalle Bank put a freshly christened "LaSalle Bank Chicago Marathon" back among the world's top races, a position not seen since 1986. Over 10,000 runners competed in cool and cloudy weather to make the 17th Chicago Marathon a spectacular event. Luiz Antonio Dos Santos of Brazil successfully defended his title with a time of 2:11:16. Kristy Johnston, a native of Coos Bay, OR, out-battled the women's competition to finish in 2:31:34. After claiming victory, she collapsed into race director Carey Pinkowski's arms at the finish line. Both Dos Santos and Johnston took home $30,000 out of the $200,000 total purse for their victories.

October 31, 1993: Luiz Antonio Dos Santos, 2:13:14; Ritva Lemettinen, 2:33:18

Snowfall, 34-degree temperatures and 12-degree wind chills greeted the 6,941 Chicago Marathon runners on Halloween (the latest race date in Chicago's history). Battling whipping wind and snow along the lakeshore, some dropped out with hypothermia. With prize money at $20,000 for the first men's and women's finishers, Luiz Antonio Dos Santos of Brazil and Ritva Lemettinen of Finland trudged through the wintry conditions to claim victory with the fastest winning times since 1990. Dos Santos became the third straight Brazilian man to win while Lemettinen was briefly disqualified with charges of running behind two male pacers who blocked the wind from her path, a violation of USA Track & Field Rule 66. The decision was later overturned due to unclear wording of Rule 66, and her victory was restored. Ann Walters won the women's wheelchair competition, continuing the streak she started in 1991. This year marked her easiest victory in 1:57:34; she was the only female competitor.

October 25, 1992: Jose Cesar De Souza, 2:16:14; Linda Somers, 2:37:41

Under perfect running conditions, 8,214 runners competed in the 1992 Chicago Marathon. With a lack of depth of world-class runners, Chicago's 15th edition was difficult to predict. Jose Cesar DeSouza, with his unmatched 5:11 per mile pace, won the men's competition to become the second consecutive champion from Brazil. Linda Somers of Pleasant Hill, CA, set a personal best, winning the women's race by a two-minute margin. She would later represent the U.S. in the marathon at the 1996 Olympic Games. However, both winning times were the slowest since 1981. DeSouza and Somers each walked away with $7,500 for their victories. In the wheelchair competition, Ann Walters, uncontested, set a new course record of 1:44:29, a record that still stands today.

October 27, 1991: Joseildo Rocha, 2:14:33; Midde Hamrin-Senorski, 2:36:2

The 14th Chicago Marathon did not start on a positive note. The loss of another title sponsor drastically reduced the prize money for winners to $7,500, compared to $30,000 the previous year. Around 7,500 started the race, but only 5,908 crossed the finish line. Thus, even with ideal racing conditions, Joseildo Rocha of Brazil and Midde Hamrin-Senorski of Sweden finished with the slowest winning times since 1981 for both men and women. Ann Walters won the women's wheelchair competition in 1:53:33, a streak she would continue for the next six years through 1996. No other athlete has won six consecutive Chicago Marathon titles.

October 28, 1990: Martin Pitayo, 2:09:41; Aurora Cunha, 2:30:11

As a result of the hard work of new race director Carey Pinkowski, the 1990 race was a big success. Pinkowski was the youngest director of any major U.S. marathon. More important than his effective management, however, was that Pinkowski brought the Chicago Marathon together with the Chicago Area Runners Association (CARA). As a result, he was able to get local runners and running clubs more involved than ever before in the race, especially as volunteers.

On race day, the finish could not have been more exciting. Mexico's Martin Pitayo and Poland's Antoni Niemczak ran the final 10 miles of the race side by side. At the last possible moment, Pitayo surged ahead to beat Niemczak by less than a step; the 0.3 second margin of victory was the narrowest in race history. Meanwhile, in her first U.S. marathon appearance, Portugal's Aurora Cunha took the women's title with a personal best time of 2:30:11. Pitayo and Cunha claimed $30,000 each out of the $250,000 total purse for their victories. The winners were not the only stars of the day. Local resident Ann Clark enjoyed celebrity status as spectators applauded her finish and asked her to pose with them in pictures. The 81-year-old from Carol Stream, IL, who didn't take up running until age 64, finished in 5:46.

October 29, 1989: Paul Davis-Hale, 2:11:25; Lisa Weidenbach, 2:28:15

Along with the other 8,529 runners who started the race, and in stark contrast to the previous year, Paul Davis-Hale of Great Britain and America's Lisa Weidenbach battled unseasonably warm temperatures, 64 percent humidity and windy conditions that accompanied the 12th Chicago Marathon. Davis-Hale won the race in 2:11:25. Weidenbach, while breaking her personal best time, became Chicago's second repeat women's champion. Both winners walked away with $50,000 in prize money. The oldest competitor in the race was 84-year-old Ida Mintz, who finished in 6:07. In the wheelchair competition, America's Scot Hollonbeck won for the men in 1:45:30, and Ann Cody-Morris won for the women in 1:58:51.

October 30, 1988: Alejandro Cruz, 2:08:57; Lisa Weidenbach, 2:29:17

With 8,700 registered runners, the Chicago Marathon was back in 1998 after a one-year demotion as a half marathon, and with a new title sponsor in Old Style. Runners were greeted with unseasonably cold temperatures in the 30s. The chilly conditions could not stop Alejandro Cruz of Mexico and Lisa

Weidenbach of the U.S. from claiming victory over the 5,795 finishers. Cruz broke his country's record with a personal best of 2:08:57. Weidenbach, of Seattle, WA, became just the fifth American woman to run a sub-2:30 marathon with her personal best 2:29:17. The champions took home a then record $50,000 each out of the $350,000 total purse for their victories.

October 25, 1987: Steve Jones, 1:04:20; Kim Ballentine, 1:18:20 (half-marathon)

Due to a loss in sponsorship, the Chicago Marathon was not held in 1987. However, a half-marathon was organized to provide Chicago's runners with a low-budget alternative. Taster's Choice was the sponsor of the event called the Columbian Select Half-Marathon. Steve Jones, by now a hero in Chicago, returned to claim victory in 1:04:20. Kim Ballentine of Brentwood, MO, won the women's division in 1:18:20.

October 26, 1986: Toshihiko Seko, 2:08:27; Ingrid Kristiansen, 2:27:08

The 10th anniversary Chicago Marathon delivered great racing weather. Despite the 90 percent humidity, temperatures remained in the upper 50s, providing comfortable conditions for the 12,000 runners who started the race. Japan's Toshihiko Seko took the lead after 22 miles and went on to win in 2:08:27. Norway's Ingrid Kristiansen dominated the women's competition by more than two minutes. Both winners received $40,000 for their victories. However, the rest of the 8,173 runners who finished did not go home empty-handed. Due to high popularity the previous year, race officials doubled the number of massage tables and therapists, giving more than 500 racers "special treatment" for their tired muscles.

October 20, 1985: Steve Jones, 2:07:13; Joan Benoit Samuelson, 2:21:21

The 1985 race turned out the largest number of runners Chicago had seen to date, and the fastest. Nearly 10,000 competed as Great Britain's Steve Jones and America's Joan Benoit Samuelson claimed victory. Jones' goal was to set another world record, as he had done the previous year, but he missed Carlos Lopes of Portugal's mark by just one second. His victory earned him $35,000 for winning, $10,000 for setting the new course record and $13,000 in time bonuses for running under 2:08.

The women's competition featured one of the top fields ever assembled, with the then second-, fourth- and fifth-fastest times in the world being set. Ingrid Kristiansen of Norway, the world record-holder; Joan Benoit Samuelson, the 1984 Olympic Marathon gold medalist; and Rosa Mota of Portugal, the Olympic Marathon bronze medalist and Chicago's defending champion, battled for victory. Not only did Benoit Samuelson win (missing Kristiansen's world record by just 15 seconds), but she established new American and course records.

October 21, 1984: Steve Jones, 2:08:05; Rosa Mota, 2:26:01

Despite cold temperatures and a steady downpour of rain, nearly 8,000 runners started the race, including 70 world-class athletes; both totals were event records. Great Britain's Steve Jones delivered Chicago's first-ever world record, establishing the event's reputation on the international stage. According to Jones, "I had no idea what kind of pace I was running and no idea how fast they were running. I got to 24 and a half and 25 and the press truck left to go to the finish line. A writer from London shouted that if I kept it under five-minute pace, I had a chance for the record. I was confused and thought he meant a course record!" While defending her title, Portugal's Rosa Mota also broke the women's course record she set the previous year. For their wins, Jones and Mota took home $35,000 each out of the $250,000 purse. This year's race also marked the first official wheelchair competition, with five men and one woman competing. Robert Fitch from East Lansing, MI took the men's title in 2:35:06 while Jonnie Baylark from Bellwood, IL won the women's race in 3:29:10.

October 16, 1983: Joseph Nzau, 2:09:44; Rosa Mota, 2:31:12

Almost 7,000 runners came out for what would be the most competitive race Chicago had ever seen. Mere feet from the finish, Joseph Nzau of Kenya surged ahead and out-leaned Hugh Jones of Great Britain to win the race by half a second (2:09:44.3 to 2:09:44.8). Nzau would be the first of many Kenyan victors in Chicago, although East African dominance would not take hold of the sport for another decade and a half.

In the women's competition, Rosa Mota of Portugal took over the lead with one mile left, beating Anne Audain of New Zealand and setting a new course record. Although the race was called "America's Marathon," $113,000 out of the $135,000 prize purse went to 15 men and women from 11 foreign countries. A record 250,000 Chicagoans cheered on the participants, helping 5,237 mostly local runners make it to the finish.

September 26, 1982: Greg Meyer, 2:10:59; Nancy Conz, 2:33:23

The sixth annual Chicago Marathon was an international affair, with over 30 world-class runners from eight different nations competing among the 6,014 racers, 4,642 of whom finished. But it was Americans Greg Meyer and Nancy Conz, both from Massachusetts, who won the day, both establishing new course records (by three and 12 minutes, respectively). Not only did they take home the thrill of victory, but also the event's first prize money checks ($12,000 for each out of a $77,000 purse).

September 27, 1981: Phil Coppess, 2:16:13; Tina Gandy, 2:49:39

While most runners were sleeping, two participants began the 1981 Chicago Marathon at 2 a.m. on Sunday in order to finish the entire 26.2-mile course by the 3:30 p.m. deadline...walking. At the regular start time, another 5,400 joined them, ages seven to 78 years old, including 12 corporate teams, two wheelchair entrants and one blind runner. With 1,800 volunteers helping out along the way and 25,000 spectators, Iowa's Phil Coppess, running his third marathon, and Tina Gandy of Minnesota, raced against 25 mile per hour winds on their way to victory.

September 28, 1980: Frank Richardson, 2:14:04; Sue Peterson, 2:45:03

With temperatures in the low 60s, more than 4,600 runners turned out for a race in ideal conditions. Frank Richardson, a newlywed of just 49 days from Iowa, and Sue Peterson, a Californian who crossed the finish line alongside her husband Pete, claimed victories with the fastest winning times Chicago had seen to date. Ida Mintz, 74, finished the race with her son, daughter-in-law and grandson in 4:45, claiming the title of the world's oldest female marathoner. Jane Schiff was the Chicago Marathon's first unofficial wheelchair winner with a time of 3:02:38. Proceeds of the 1980 race went to the Chicago Boys Club.

October 21, 1979: Dan Cloeter, 2:23:20; Laura Michalek, 3:15:45

After miserable running weather the previous year, race organizers attempted to avoid similar conditions by pushing the race date back to October. Despite these efforts, temperatures were once again against runners' favor as 3,700 race starters battled the 77 degree heat, 81 percent humidity and 20 mile per hour wind gusts along the lakefront. Due to the challenging conditions, only 2,869 runners finished the race. Dan Cloeter, the 1977 winner, returned to claim the men's victory. Shortly after winning, he collapsed with severe dehydration. Nancy Reid and Donna Simmons illegally "dropped in" to place first and second for the women, but were disqualified when it was proven that they did not run the entire race. This gave the victory to 15-year-old Laura Michalek of Berwyn, IL, the youngest winner in Chicago Marathon history. Also for the record book, both the men's and women's times are still Chicago's slowest winning times. Beatrice Foods sponsored the race for the first time, providing their Tropicana orange juice and Dannon yogurt to exhausted runners at the finish line.

September 24, 1978: Mark Stanforth, 2:19:20; Lynae Larson, 2:59:25

Organizing the second Chicago Marathon was not an easy task. Controversy surrounding the start time and entry fee developed, leaving founders divided. On one side were those who wanted a $10 entry fee and a noon kick-off. The later start time would draw more spectators and publicity, while also allowing out-of-town participants more travel time. On the other side were those who felt $10 was too expensive and that a noon start time could be detrimental to the runners, especially the slower participants who would be running in the heat of the afternoon. They also felt that organizers were putting the interest of the media before that of the runners. While the $10 entry fee remained, a compromise of a 10:30 a.m. start time was finally reached. (In November 1977, Dr. Noel Nequin, along with Erma Trantor, Sharon Mier and other protesters, ended their involvement and formed the Chicago Area Runners Association (CARA) to manage races for runners' protection.)

On race day, thousands of participants wore black armbands in protest of the later start time. The Chicago Marathon quickly became a dual competition—the race against time and the battle against the heat. With lakefront temperatures reaching 85 degrees, nearly 300 runners were treated for blisters or heat exhaustion, while 10 more were taken to local hospitals for heat-related issues and dehydration. But the warm temperatures couldn't stop Arizona's Mark Stanforth or South Dakota's Lynae Larson. Both conquered the heat to claim victory over the other 5,200 starters, 4,053 of whom finished the race. Despite the heat, the event ran smoothly. For the first time in U.S. history a dual start was used, the two points a block apart, which helped spread the runners out. Plenty of water was available to help quench thirst, and most agreed that the second Chicago Marathon was a success.

September 25, 1977: Dan Cloeter, 2:17:52; Dorothy Doolittle, 2:50:47

More than 4,200 runners turned out for the first Mayor Daley Marathon, making it the largest marathon in the world at the time (in terms of registered runners). Dan Cloeter of Indiana and Dorothy Doolittle of Texas battled the crowds to become Chicago's first winners in a race that 2,128 actually finished. Other competitors included Wesley Paul, an eight-year-old who finished in 3:15:20, setting a world record in his age group. Jack Donahue was the final person across the finish line at 7:09:42. The only glitch of the race occurred when the ceremonial starter's cannon misfired into the crowd, injuring two spectators. Ironically, the two burned were the wife and daughter of Wayne Goeldner, an original race founder. Despite the accident, the event ran very smoothly and, as advertised, was an event for the whole city to enjoy.

The Founding

In November 1976 at the Metropolitan YMCA on LaSalle Street, five key founders of what would eventually become the Bank of America Chicago Marathon met to begin discussions and planning. Those present included Wayne Goeldner, physical education director of the Hyde Park YMCA; Wendell "Wendy" Miller, a partner in a financial advising firm and founder of Midwest Masters Running Club; Bill Robinson, executive director of Friends of Parks; Sharon Mier, director of women's sports at the Loop Center YMCA; and Dr. Noel Nequin, director of cardiac rehabilitation at the Swedish Covenant Hospital. At this meeting, the group decided it was time for a marathon in Chicago.

Talks of a marathon continued, but little was actually done to stage the race. The turning point came in May 1977 when Dr. Nequin organized the first "mega" race in Chicago—the Ravenswood Bank Lakefront 10-Mile Run. The race was a great success, with more than 1,000 runners participating, up from an expected 200-300. Michael Bilandic, Chicago's new Mayor and an avid runner, was invited to the event. Not only did he show up to lend his support, but he and his wife, Heather, also handed out the awards to the winners. The Mayor's strong support and overwhelming runner participation gave the marathon's founders, who weren't quite sure if a marathon could succeed in Chicago, the inspiration they needed to make the city's first 26.2-mile road race a reality.

Suddenly 1977 was becoming a landmark year for running in Chicago. Several other shorter races were organized for the first time in addition to the Chicago Marathon, including the Chicago Distance Classic with almost 5,000 runners, an unheard number of participants at the time. But running fever did not stop with the new races. After seeing the success of the Lakefront 10, Mayor Bilandic decided to make Chicago "the running capital of the world." To further show his support, Bilandic turned five miles of an old equestrian path along the lakefront into jogging paths, creating a scenic course for runners that today stretches 18 miles and serves as the hub of the Chicago running community. Thus, with all of the new events and opportunities, the sport of running in Chicago was enjoying a groundswell of excitement and participation.

By July 1977, Wendy Miller approached his friend and fellow Chicago businessman Lee Flaherty to rally support. Miller convinced Flaherty, a running enthusiast himself, to have his company, Flair Communications, be the official sponsor of the Chicago Marathon. Dr. Nequin and Flaherty then had a lunch meeting at the Drake Hotel with William Daley, son of the late Mayor Richard J. Daley, about naming the event. Following the meeting, the Daley family gave its blessing to name the race the Mayor Daley Marathon.

Initially set-up with a $5 entry fee and an 8 a.m. start time, the race was scheduled for September 25, 1977, and specific jobs were distributed amongst the founders. Dr. Nequin was the medical director; Miller was the race director; Goeldner was in charge of registration; Mier was responsible for organizing 700 volunteers to marshal and officiate the race; and Robinson was treasurer. In addition, Erma Trantor, a friend of Mier's, was hired to be the race coordinator; Ruth Ratny, a business friend of Flaherty's, was the publicist.

The first ever Mayor Daley Marathon was soon to be a great success. Ads declared it the "people's race anyone can come and enjoy," and that was the approach organizers took. Then, on September 25, the hard work of many dedicated people who established the race as something for the entire city, paid off.

as a result of a doping violation, the International Athletics Association Federations (IAAF) announced in 2016 that the 2014 result of Rita Jeptoo has been annulled. In 2015, as a result of a doping violation, the IAAF announced that the 2009-2012 results of Liliya Shobukhova have been annulled. As a result of doping violations, the IAAF also announced that the 2009 result of Lidiya Grigoryeva, the 2010, 2012 and 2013 results of Maria Kononova and the 2013 result of Aleksandra Duliba have been annulled. The official results of the Bank of America Chicago Marathon reflect this change*

About the Abbott World Marathon Majors

For runners across the globe, competing in an Abbott World Marathon Majors (AbbottWMM) race is a significant accomplishment. Six of the largest and most renowned road races in the world – the Tokyo, Boston, Virgin Money London, BMW BERLIN, Bank of America Chicago and TCS New York City Marathons – make up AbbottWMM. The organization delivers several unique benefits to runners:

- Unparalleled experiences – operational excellence at each race ensures a premium race-day journey for runners
- Championship Series – professional athletes competing in AbbottWMM qualifying events compete for a prize purse every year
- Advancement of marathoning – AbbottWMM organizers aggressively champion anti-doping protocols and other efforts to move the sport forward

History

Organizers of the Boston, London, Berlin, Chicago and New York marathons joined together in 2006 to create AbbottWMM with a mission of providing global leadership in elite and mass participation marathons. The Tokyo Marathon entered the collective in 2013. These industry leading organizations are now united in their effort to advance the sport, raise awareness of marathons' elite athletes, and increase the level of interest in elite racing among running enthusiasts.

In October 2014, Abbott, a global healthcare company, and the World Marathon Majors announced a new partnership. Abbott became the race series' first-ever title sponsor, effective at the 2015 Tokyo Marathon. Tim Hadzima was appointed as the general manager of the Abbott World Marathon Majors in December of 2014.

A new series format—a one-year cycle of qualifying races—was announced in February 2015, beginning at the 2015 Tokyo Marathon, replacing the previous two-year series format. In April of 2015, it was also announced that the series would expand to include wheelchair athletes, starting at the 2016 Boston Marathon.

Recently, AbbottWMM announced an agreement with Dalian Wanda Group Co., Ltd to develop a ten-year strategic partnership aimed at expanding the Series with events added in new regions such as Asia (outside Japan) and Africa. The organization is now on an ongoing process identifying candidate races that will be required to meet AbbottWMM's stringent criteria before selection for the Series.

In addition, AbbottWMM expanded its prize structure and introduced a new charity program for its Series XI, which began at the Virgin Money London Marathon on Sunday, April 23, 2017. The prize money is now restructured to recognize and reward the top three men's and women's finishers in both the open and wheelchair Series. Previously, only the individual champions received prize money.

Through the new charity program, a total donation of $280,000 will be made in the name of the race winners of the seven races that make up Series XI, which include the 2017 Virgin Money London, BMW BERLIN, Bank of America Chicago and TCS New York City Marathons, and the 2018 Tokyo, Boston, and Virgin Money London Marathons.

Each race winner in the open and wheelchair categories will be honored with an AbbottWMM $10,000 donation, in his or her name, to a charity.

For information on the four charities that will receive donations in honor of the four 2017 Chicago

Marathon champions – a total of $40,000 – please see a member of the Chicago Marathon communications staff.

Series format

The champions of the Abbott World Marathon Majors are determined through a one-year cycle of Qualifying Races featuring unprecedented anti-doping protocols. The Abbott World Marathon Majors Series cycles through one year of competition and consist of the following Qualifying Races: Tokyo Marathon, Boston Marathon, Virgin Money London Marathon, BMW BERLIN MARATHON, Bank of America Chicago Marathon, TCS New York City Marathon, Olympic/Paralympic Marathon and IAAF/IPC Athletics World Championships Marathon.

Point System: The champions of the AbbottWMM Series are the male and female athletes who score the greatest number of points from Qualifying Races during the one-year scoring period. During each scoring period, points from a maximum of two Qualifying Races will be scored. An athlete must start in two Qualifying Races over the Series cycle to be eligible for the championship. If an athlete earns points in more than two events, the athlete's highest two finishes will be scored.

Scoring and prize purse

For Abbott World Marathon Majors Series XI, the three athletes in the open and wheelchair divisions with the highest amount of points are awarded prize money. Athletes earn the following points by placing among the top five in Qualifying Races:

- 1st place – 25 points
- 2nd place – 16 points
- 3rd place – 9 points
- 4th place – 4 points
- 5th place – 1 point

The top three women and men in the open and wheelchair divisions are awarded prize money as follows:

	Series XI Men	Series XI Women	Wheelchair Series XI Men	Wheelchair Series XI Women	Series XI Charity Program	Total
1st	$250,000	$250,000	$50,000	$50,000	$280,000	$880,000
2nd	$50,000	$50,000	$25,000	$25,000		$150,000
3rd	$25,000	$25,000	$10,000	$10,000		$70,000
Total	$325,000	$325,000	$85,000	$85,000	$280,000	$1,100,000

During the Series XI one-year scoring period, points from a maximum of two Qualifying Races will be scored. A runner must start in two Qualifying Races over the Series cycle to be eligible to receive prize money. If s/he earns points in more than two events, the athlete's highest two finishes will be scored. The Wheelchair Series follows the same rules, but points from an athlete's best four races will count towards the total.

Doping violations: Under AWMM rules, no athlete who has been found guilty of any anti-doping rules enforced by the IAAF, World Anti-Doping Association (WADA), National Federations, or any of the individual AWMM races is eligible to win the AWMM championship title or any prize money. Athletes must comply with the AWMM Code of Conduct.

Series: Each series starts and ends at the same Qualifying race over a one-year period.

Women:

Wheelchair Series X (2016-17)

Men: Marcel Hug, Switzerland

Women: Tatyana McFadden, USA

* Liliya Shobukhova (RUS) was the original winner of Series IV and V but she was banned from competition for a doping violation in April 2014 and all her results from Oct. 9, 2009 have been annulled.

 Rita Jeptoo (KEN) won four races in the 2013/14 series but gave positive A and B samples in an out-of-competition test in September 2014. Her standings and the final results of the 2013/14 Series have been determined at the completion of the due legal process and the outcome of an appeal. As a result, the Series VIII title has been awarded to Edna Kiplagat.

 A winner of the women's Series X championship will be named once the doping investigation and legal process is complete for Jemima Sumgong (KEN), who won two races but gave a positive sample in an out-of-competition test in February 2017.

About the Tokyo Marathon

Organized by the Tokyo Marathon Foundation, the inaugural Tokyo Marathon was held on February 18, 2007, and drew 95,044 applicants and 30,870 participants. Kenya's Daniel Njenga (2:09:45) and Japan's Hitomi Niiya (2:31:01) were the first champions. Since then, the Tokyo Marathon has grown to over 300,000 applicants and nearly 36,000 participants. Through its theme, "The Day We Unite," the Tokyo Marathon brings together runners, volunteers and spectators. In 2011, the Tokyo Marathon implemented its own charity program, "Run with Heart", through which donors can contribute to various charitable activities. In 2016 and 2017, the number of charity runner entrants reached its capacity of 3,000 and the capacity has been increased to 4,000 for 2018.

From its 10th anniversary event, Tokyo Marathon 2016, the official race logo has been renewed to present the portrayed images of the runners, volunteers and cheering crowds along the course, which symbolizes the race theme "The Day We Unite." In addition, Tokyo Marathon 2017, which was held on February 26, 2017, featured a new course that finishes in front of the Tokyo station area for the first time. As Tokyo was chosen to host the 2020 Olympic Games, the Tokyo Marathon is also gaining more attention and popularity from home and abroad. Tokyo Marathon 2018 will be held on Sunday, February 25, 2018.

About the Virgin Money London Marathon

In 1979, after running the New York City Marathon with John Disley, the late Chris Brasher questioned whether London could stage such a festival: "We have the course . . . but do we have the heart and hospitality to welcome the world?" Later that year, Brasher travelled to America, where the running boom of the late 1970s had started. He witnessed the Boston Marathon and revisited the New York City race. He studied both races' organizations and finances. On his return, Brasher and Disley secured a three-year contract with Gillette for £75,000, established the organization's charitable status, and set down six main aims for the event. The first London Marathon was held on March 29, 1981. More than 20,000 people wanted to run; 7,747 were accepted. There were 6,255 finishers, led home by American Dick Beardsley and Norwegian Inge Simonsen. Joyce Smith broke the British record to win the women's race. The 1982 race received more than 90,000 applicants from around the world. The entry was limited to 18,059.

Since then, the London Marathon has grown to more than 39,000 starters and finishers, and elite runners compete for $313,000 in prize money. Both the men's and women's pro runner world records have been set in the race, including the current women's mark of 2:15:25, set by Paula Radcliffe of Great Britain in 2003. The race is viewed in more than 196 countries worldwide and watched by between four and five million viewers in the UK via the BBC.

About the Boston Marathon

Inspired by their experience at the 1896 Olympic Games, several members of the Boston Athletic Association founded their own marathon in 1897. The race has been run every year since (though the 1918 edition featured a military relay rather than an individual race) and is now the world's oldest annual marathon. Both the start and finish lines have been moved over the years, but much of the original course remains exactly as it was originally designed.

Since 1924, the race has begun in the town of Hopkinton, and from there the point-to-point course descends through Ashland, Framingham, Natick and Wellesley. Upon entering Newton, the course gradually rises to the famous Heartbreak Hill. As runners reach the top, they can see downtown Boston for the first time, four miles in the distance. After running through Brookline, the course enters Boston where it finishes on historic Boylston Street. Runners must qualify for entry by meeting time standards corresponding to gender and age, which is another aspect—besides its course and longevity—unique to the Boston Marathon.

About the Bank of America Chicago Marathon

In 1976, a small band of running enthusiasts met at the Metropolitan YMCA on LaSalle Street to discuss and plan a marathon in Chicago. Backed by the athletic enthusiasm of the new Chicago Mayor, Michael Bilandic, and the leadership of Lee Flaherty, this founding group realized their vision on September 25, 1977, when they hosted 4,200 local participants in the first Chicago Marathon. The Bank of America Chicago Marathon has since expanded to 45,000 registered runners and an estimated 1.7 million on-course spectators. The flat and fast course begins and ends in historic Grant Park, sweeping through 29 diverse and colorful neighborhoods including Lakeview, Greektown, Little Italy, Pilsen, Chinatown, and Bronzeville. The loop course and abundance of public transportation options enables friends and family to cheer their runners on at many locations along the course. The Bank of America Chicago Marathon has a long history of hosting the world's fastest runners and has been the site of two men's world records (Steve Jones, 2:08:05, 1984; and Khalid Khannouchi, 2:05:42, 1999) and two women's world records (Catherine Ndereba, 2:18:47, 2001; and Paula Radcliffe, 2:17:18, 2002).

About the BMW Berlin Marathon

A group of runners from one of Germany's most prestigious athletics clubs, SC Charlottenburg, organized the first Berlin Marathon in 1974. In 1981, the race moved from the Grunewald (a large forest) into the city center of West Berlin. Supported by the three Western forces of Great Britain, France, and the United States, the race quickly developed into Germany's biggest and highest-quality marathon. After the Berlin Wall collapsed in November of 1989, a new era began. On September 30, 1990, three days before reunification, the course of the Berlin Marathon was redirected through the Brandenburg Gate and both parts of Berlin. In the 2001 race, Naoko Takahashi became the first woman to break the 2:20 barrier. The flat and fast loop course was then changed significantly for the 2003 race.

The BMW Berlin Marathon has developed into one of the world's finest road races. Paul Tergat of Kenya became the first man to cross the new finish line, passing through the Brandenburg Gate—the symbol for reunification—and setting a world record of 2:04:55. Haile Gebrselassie of Ethiopia further lowered the men's world mark twice in Berlin—to 2:04:26 in 2007 and then to 2:03:59 a year later. In the 2011 race, Patrick Makau of Kenya set another new men's world record of 2:03:38; in 2013, his countryman Wilson Kipsang lowered it again, to 2:03:23, and the current world mark of 2:02:57 was set in 2014 by Dennis Kimetto, also of Kenya.

About the TCS New York City Marathon

NYRR's premier event, the TCS New York City Marathon is the most loved and most inclusive marathon in the world, attracting elite athletes and recreational runners alike for the challenge and thrill of a lifetime. The race has grown tremendously since it began in 1970 with just 127 runners racing four laps of Central Park. Now, approximately 50,000 participants from all over the globe flock to New York City every November for an adrenaline-filled road tour of all five boroughs, starting on Staten Island at the foot of the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge and ending in Central Park. Some run for prize money or bragging rights, others for charity or their personal best. All are cheered on by more than one million live spectators, and the race has a broadcast reach of 850 million.

Paul Lambert
Chicago Market President, Bank of America
Mid West Division Executive, Merrill Lynch Wealth Management

@paultoddlambert

Paul Lambert is Division Executive responsible for the Mid West Division for Merrill Lynch Wealth Management as well as the Chicago Market President. In his division executive role he oversees more than 2,500 wealth advisors in 14 Midwestern states.

As Market President, Paul serves as Bank of America's local enterprise leader across the Chicago Market. In this role, he works across the region to connect businesses, families and individuals to Bank of America's banking and investment teams. He also leads the effort to direct Bank of America's resources in the market and the region to address local priorities and help build strong communities.

Prior to his current role, Paul served as Regional Managing Director for the Mid-America Private Banking and Investment Group, where he led the firm's ultra-high net worth management efforts in the Midwest. Before relocating to Chicago, Paul was the Director of the Merrill Lynch New York Capital Complex in Albany, N.Y.

Paul joined Merrill Lynch in 1992 as a Financial Advisor in Rochester, N.Y. He also held various leadership and coaching roles, eventually assuming the position of Associate Director for the New York City Metropolitan Region in 2001. He holds a bachelor's degree in Management Science/Finance from SUNY Geneseo as well as the Certified Investment Management Analyst (CIMA) designation.

An active community leader, Paul currently serves on the board of Chicago Run and leads its fundraising efforts with the Bank of America Chicago Marathon. He is also on the Board of the Art Institute of Chicago and a member of The Commercial Club of Chicago. He and his wife are involved with The Community House in Hinsdale, where his wife serves as a Trustee.

Carey Pinkowski
Executive Race Director
Bank of America Chicago Marathon

Carey Pinkowski came to the helm of the Bank of America Chicago Marathon nearly three decades ago, serving as its executive race director since 1990. During his tenure, the Chicago Marathon has experienced astronomical growth, expanding from 6000 registered runners in 1990 to more than 40,000 participants today, including runners from all 50 states and more than 130 countries. For 28 years, Pinkowski has been a key player in building the marathon's dynamic relationships with the city, the corporate community and the local neighborhoods along the course.

Under Pinkowski's leadership, the Bank of America Chicago Marathon delivers far more than fast performances. Each year, the event generates an economic impact on the City of Chicago of $277 million, and, since 2002, over 106,000 runners have helped the Chicago Marathon charity program raise more than $167 million for local, national and global causes.

In 2006, Pinkowski utilized his experience as Executive Race Director of the Chicago Marathon to help found the Abbott World Marathon Majors (AWMM). Pinkowski, along with the race directors at the Boston, London, Berlin and New York City marathons, created a series – which now includes the Tokyo Marathon – to award an annual $1 million prize purse to the world's top male and female marathon runners. In addition to building interest in the sport's elite athletes, the AWMM continues to yield mass excitement and participation in the sport of running.

Pinkowski's legacy with the Chicago Marathon includes designing its record setting and spectator friendly course that traverses 29 diverse Chicago neighborhoods, starting and finishing in Chicago's "front yard," Grant Park. Pinkowski's course design allows for more than 1.7 million spectators to watch the race, making the marathon an annual gathering for the entire City of Chicago. Three of the Chicago Marathon's four world records have been set during Pinkowski's time: Morocco's Khalid Khannouchi (1999), Kenya's Catherine Ndereba (2001) and Great Britain's Paula Radcliffe (2002). Great Britain's Steve Jones recorded Chicago's first-ever world record in 1984.

To commemorate his 20th anniversary as Executive Race Director, the City of Chicago and Bank of America bestowed Pinkowski with an honorary street naming – "Carey Pinkowski Drive" – at the intersection of Monroe Street and Columbus Drive, the site of the race's start line.

In spite of directing the Chicago Marathon for 28 years, Pinkowski, born in Harvey, Ill. and raised in Hammond, IN., has only run one marathon: the 1983 Chicago Marathon, stopping the clock in an impressive 2:20:43. As a teenager, he cemented his legacy as a track star at Hammond High School in 1975 when he and two teammates, Tim Keough and Rudy Chapa, each ran two miles in less than nine minutes, becoming the first high school trio to ever accomplish such a feat in the same season. Their record stood for 39 years before three students from Long Island, N.Y, finally broke it in 2014. As a solo performer, Pinkowski picked up two state championship titles in the mile. He went on to compete at Villanova University where he was a three-time All American in cross country and track.

Pinkowski has received numerous awards including the Illinois Track & Cross Country Coaches Association Meritorious Service to the Youth of Illinois Award (1998), Chicago Area Runners Association Gold Medal Award for Event Production (1999), MarathonFoto/Road Race Management Race Director of the Year Award presented by Running Times magazine (2001), Runner's World magazine's Best Race Director Award (2002), the National Distance Running Hall of Fame's Fred Lebow Award (2004) and USA Track & Field's Allan Steinfeld Award for Lifetime Achievement in Men's Long Distance Running (2009).

Dr. George T. Chiampas, DO CAQSM FACEP
Medical Director
Bank of America Chicago Marathon

Dr. Chiampas is an assistant professor in the Department of Emergency Medicine at the Feinberg School of Medicine at Northwestern University and Northwestern Memorial Hospital. He is the founder and co-director of Chicago Cardiac Arrest and Resuscitation and Educational Services (CCARES), a foundation that promotes public education, awareness, training and legislation on sudden cardiac death.

Dr. Chiampas has served as Bank of America Chicago Marathon Medical Director since 2007. During this time the Chicago Marathon has become a global leader in operational safety and emergency preparedness and response in mass event incidents. Dr. Chiampas has led grant funding from the National Scientific Foundation on mass event management. Chiampas has also served as a president and is currently a board member of the International Institute for Race Medicine (IIRM), which promotes runner and race safety globally.

Additionally, Dr. Chiampas has served as the chief medical officer for U.S. Soccer and the U.S. men's national team since 2014. He is a team physician for the Chicago Blackhawks and previously with Northwestern University Athletics, serving as interim head team physician at Northwestern from 2011-2013. He serves on the Gatorade Sports Science Institute (GSSI) speakers' panel.

Dr. Chiampas has authored numerous scientific publications and he has lectured at academic conferences and scientific meetings throughout the world. His primary topics of interest and expertise are mass event and community preparedness and safety, sports injuries, and sudden cardiac death survival and public awareness through CPR and AED availability.

He chairs the public safety and prevention committee for the Chicago Medical Society. His professional goal is to enhance sports and public safety for individual and team sports through mass event emergency preparedness.
